Road Toll Hits All-Time High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's traffic deaths over the Labor Day weekend hit an all-time high for any summer holiday.

The 605 deaths reported at the end of the 78-hour holiday period by midnight (local time) Monday topped the previous record of 563 set in last year's

27 Perish On State's Highways

Weather Dampens Resort Revelry

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State accidental death toll reached into the 30s over the long Labor Day weekend as residents surged to vacation areas to enjoy the end of summer.

Total Deaths Are 35

As the last major summer weekend ended, 27 persons had died on the state's highways. In addition, during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, two men were drowned, one perished in a boating mishap and three died in other types of accidents.

The weekend closed with clear skies and cool temperatures prevailing across most of the state. Spirits—and crops—were dampened in widespread areas Sunday, however, by rains that dumped nearly three inches of water in parts of the state and left lesser amounts elsewhere.

The wet weather was cited as one reason for a peaceful weekend in the Adirondack resort community of Lake George, the scene of extensive revelry and occasional riots in past years.

State Police and local officials said the community was crowded with about 12,000 young people and noted they appeared to be teen-agers rather than the college-age visitors of other years.

Motel Damaged
One motel was reported damaged by celebrating youngsters. At the same time, arrests, mostly for traffic violations, totaled about 160, police said.

The death toll compared with 38 persons who died during the 1965 Labor Day weekend. Of that number, 29 perished in traffic mishaps.

Commonwealth Chiefs Open Crucial Rhodesia Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of 22 British Commonwealth nations opened a crucial conference on rebellious Rhodesia today which could strengthen the multiracial family of nations or start it on the road to dissolution.

The conference is the second major challenge this week to Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who on the home front made a defense of his austerity program Monday night that appeared to head off a union revolt against his freeze on wages.

Boycotted by Tanzania

Wilson welcomed the heads of the 21 delegations in the ornate hall of Marlborough House. President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania is boycotting the 10-day conference, and eight other African and Asian chiefs of government sent deputies to symbolize their disapproval of Britain's handling of the 10-month Rhodesian rebellion.

Several are threatening to quit the Commonwealth unless Wilson agrees to a much tougher campaign to bring down Rhodesia's white rulers.

Government officials said Wilson had decided to agree to a compulsory U.N. oil embargo against Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime provided this does not involve a naval blockade of southern Africa.

Wilson also does not want Britain to sponsor the move in the United Nations, the informants said.

The British prime minister was reportedly determined to reject all demands for the use of military force to bring down the Smith regime, which declared three-day Labor Day weekend. The number also exceeded the previous record traffic toll of 576 for any summer holiday period, which was set during the three-day Independence Day observance this year.

Fourth Mark of Year

The grim total marked the fourth straight major holiday of this year in which traffic fatalities set a record. Traffic fatalities for the four holidays — New Year's (564), Memorial Day (542), Independence Day (576) and Labor Day (more than 600) totaled nearly 2,300.

Delayed reports were expected to boost the Labor Day total to near the maximum number of 630 deaths predicted by the National Safety Council. The council, in a preholiday statement, said the toll from 6 p.m. Friday to last midnight would range from 530 to 630.

"We had expected a record so we're not too surprised," said a council spokesman. "Death figures have been up all year."

Traffic deaths to Aug. 1 this year have been 8 per cent above last year's figure for the same seven months.

The July figure of 5,130 was an all-time high for any month. Last year's record high was 49,000.

The spokesman said a normal three-day period at this time of the year would result in about 450 traffic fatalities. A survey by The Associated Press for a nonholiday period of 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19, to midnight Monday, Aug. 22, showed 505 persons killed on the highways.

"Holiday weekends, on the average, seem to be about 25 per cent more dangerous than normal weekends," the council spokesman said. "More people are on the roads over Labor Day, the last summer weekend. The cars are crowded and the drivers are in a hurry to get to their destination."

Many Multiple Deaths
There were many multiple deaths in accidents during the holiday. The worst mishap was Saturday when three cars collided on the rain-slicker Ohio Turnpike near Norwalk, killing nine persons. Eight persons were killed Monday when a carload of teen-agers crashed into another car on U.S. 12 near Coldwater, in southern Michigan.

In contrast to the staggering total this Labor Day, the safest Labor Day weekend since World War II was in 1946 with 246 traffic fatalities.

The weekend traffic toll was termed by Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council as "a terrible epidemic of deaths on our highways."

Boating accidents during the holiday resulted in 28 deaths and 76 persons drowned.

Rocky, Wilson Set For County Visits

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County said today that both Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson have informed him that they are planning to hold meetings in the county during September.

Assemblyman Wilson said that the governor has scheduled a luncheon meeting in Kingston for Tuesday, Sept. 13 and another meeting in Ellenville later the same day, while the lieutenant governor is planning to have a press conference in Kingston, Sept. 28.

Plans Luncheon Stop
According to Assemblyman Wilson, the governor is planning to confer with a representative group of business and civic leaders from the Kingston area during his luncheon stop at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and discuss various issues on both the state and local level.

Gov. Rockefeller has held several of these conferences throughout the state during the past few months, and the meetings have given the state's business and civic leaders an excellent opportunity to air many matters of local concern directly with the chief executive.

Wilson added that the details of the luncheon meeting, and the governor's exact timetable for his visit to the county will be announced within a few days.

Press Parley on Tap
The Ulster County Assemblyman said Lt. Gov. Wilson's visit to the county, which is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 28, will be in the form of a press conference to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Wilson said invitations will be extended to all newspapers and radio stations in the area to attend the meeting, and that the lieutenant governor will be prepared to answer any question the press might have on any state issues. The meeting will also be open to the public.

Last year Lt. Gov. Wilson made a similar appearance in the county, and at that time he primarily discussed the failures of the Democrat-controlled State Legislature during its 1965 session. It is expected Wilson will again touch upon various legislative matters at this month's conference, but that he will concentrate more on the over-all Republican record of accomplishment during the past eight years of the Rockefeller Administration.

Would Face Levitt
Lanigan would face the incumbent, Arthur Levitt, the only Democrat to hold a statewide elective post in the Republican administration of Gov. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller is unopposed in the 1st district.

See Oneida Man As Choice of GOP For Comptroller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Charles T. Lanigan, Oneida County executive who was elected mayor of Rome on his first venture into politics, appears to have the Republican nomination for state comptroller sewed up.

The final decision for the slot on the November ballot rests with the party's executive committee, which meets Wednesday, but the 41-year-old Lanigan emerged as the likely choice Monday night.

'Interesting Challenge'
On the eve today of both the Democratic and Republican conventions, Lanigan told The Associated Press that whoever is selected to run for comptroller "has an interesting challenge."

The Republican convention gets underway in Rochester Wednesday, while the Democrats convene in Buffalo.

Lanigan popped up suddenly as a dark-horse choice after the GOP had rejected the possible selection of State Tax Commissioner Joseph Murphy on the ground that the state's top tax official might bring an unfavorable reaction from the voters.

Meanwhile, informed GOP sources also said Monday Lee Rankin, New York City corporation counsel and former U.S. solicitor general, had been selected as one of the 15 delegates-at-large to next year's state constitutional convention.

Rankin, one of New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay's top advisors, appeared likely to join U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits, Associated Judge Kenneth Keating of the State Court of Appeals and former Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore on the slate of GOP nominees for constitutional convention assignments.

Commenting on the Lanigan candidacy, high-level GOP sources said he was favored as a man well-versed in fiscal relations among local governments.

Twins Back For Friday Space Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Relaxed after a free weekend, the Gemini 11 astronauts today began final preparations for their launching Friday on a three-day space flight.

Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr. flew back to Cape Kennedy Monday night after spending the Labor Day weekend with their families in Houston, Tex.

Next to Last Gemini
In the next few days they will concentrate on reviewing their flight plan and practicing key phases of the demanding mission in a spacecraft simulator.

The next-to-the-last Gemini shot will attempt four major new feats: a record first-orbit rendezvous and linkup with an Agena satellite, a dash to a record altitude of 863 miles, flying formation while tied to the Agena by a 100-foot cord, and an automatic re-entry through the atmosphere.

Wednesday Is D-Day for Area School Openings

It is all systems go as public and parochial schools throughout Ulster County open for the fall term Wednesday.

In the Kingston Schools Consolidated over 10,000 students are expected to attend classes throughout the district. It is estimated some 150 more children will be registered this year, "a slight increase" due to new residents in the area.

Students returning to Kingston High School will register Wednesday morning and incoming students will register during the afternoon sessions. Registration for junior high students will be Wednesday morning.

Other districts in the county reopening Wednesday include New Paltz Central, Saugerties, Onteora, Rondout Valley, Highland and Marlboro.

Catholic schools opening Sept. 7 include the new co-educational John A. Coleman High School on the campus of the former Academy of St. Ursula, Grove Street. An estimated 270 boys and girls are registered there.

VIET NAM HERO—Two prominent Ulster County residents met far from home at last week's national convention of the American Legion in Washington, D. C. They were Captain Roger H. C. Donlon (left), a native of Saugerties and the first U. S. Army veteran to win the Congressional Medal of Honor in Viet Nam, and Thomas Bohan, of Ulster Park, who was attending the week-long meet at Ulster County delegate. They took time out to reminisce about the Catskills while Capt. Donlon showed Bohan, former New York State vice commander of the Legion, the pen given to him by President Johnson. The chief executive had used the pen to sign a resolution opening the Legion membership ranks to veterans of the Viet Nam era. Capt. Donlon was at the convention as an honored guest to receive the Legion's highest award, the Distinguished Service Medal. This marked his fifth major award since earning the Medal of Honor. In less than two years, he has also received the 1966 Golden Key Award, the Freedom Leadership Medal, South Viet Nam's national Order of the Fourth Degree and its Valiant Cross with Palm. Verwoerd Is Slain At Parliament Desk

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — An assailant killed Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd today by plunging a knife into his neck as he sat on his bench in Parliament.

The death was reported by the South African Press Association, quoting a Cabinet minister.

The news agency said it understood the assassin was a white man of Greek descent.

Thought on Official Duty
Before the members sitting near the prime minister realized what was happening, the man plunged his knife into Verwoerd several times. Blood spurting from his neck made a large pool on the green carpet alongside his seat.

The man was dressed in the black and green uniform of a Parliament messenger, and members took it for granted he was on official duty.

Members of Parliament grappled with him and pinned him to the floor. He was removed from the chamber.

The attack, the second on Verwoerd since he became prime minister in 1958, came just two days before his 65th birthday.

Several doctors who are members of Parliament rushed to the side of the man who became the symbol of South Africa's racial segregation.

U. S. Air Strikes Return To Full Fury Over North

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Giant B52 bombers rained bombs on Communist positions in the demilitarized zone today, and the U.S. air offensive over North Viet Nam returned to full fury.

American pilots flew a near-record 152 attack missions against the North Monday. They reported shooting up three railroad trains carrying war supplies and knocking out numerous trucks.

U.S. Marines reported killing 26 Communist soldiers in a day-long fight against an entrenched enemy battalion southwest of Da Nang. It was the only major ground contact reported.

The high-altitude B52s from Guam struck two targets in the six-mile-wide buffer zone between North and South Viet Nam while the Saigon government filed an urgent request to the International Control Commission to inspect the area.

As the B52s pounded the zone for the sixth time since July 20, South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Do offered air transportation to the area more than 400 miles north of Saigon so commission officials could verify "the presence of armed elements of the North Vietnamese 324B Division and anti-aircraft positions."

He told a news conference his government wants to show allied forces are operating near the zone and bombing it only in self-defense. The zone was created by the 1954 Geneva Conference, which brought temporary peace to Indochina.

One wave of B52s hit at a North Vietnamese infiltration route in the zone and another unloaded bombs on a Communist base camp there, a U.S. spokesman reported.

In the raids against the North, carrier-based Navy jets pounced on three trains on main lines around Nam Dinh, 45 miles north of Hanoi.

Wife Says Ex-Mayor Interested Hope to Block O'Connor on First

NEW YORK (AP) — Last-minute maneuvering to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination for former Mayor Robert F. Wagner was reported under way today.

Work Through Night
Allies of Wagner and Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia worked through the night in efforts to block City Council President Frank D. O'Connor from winning the nomination on the first ballot at the Democratic state convention in Buffalo tomorrow.

O'Connor claims much more delegate support than is needed for a first-ballot victory.

Several of Wagner's former top aides here joined a number of legislators in making telephone pleas to both organization and reform Democratic convention delegates and party leaders, urging them to try to force the convention into at least a second ballot, reliable sources reported.

Travia for Wagner
Julius C. C. Edelstein, who was one of Wagner's closest advisers at City Hall, and State Sen. Seymour Thaler of Queens were reported to be trying to line up nomination support for Travia.

Travia, the sources said, would swing his support to Wagner at the convention.

Friends of Wagner said early today the former mayor's wife, Barbara, told influential Democrats over the weekend that her husband would be "interested" in the nomination if enough delegates and leaders wanted him to run.

Turns Down Bid
Wagner has said repeatedly, when asked, that he was not a candidate for the nomination. But he also repeatedly has added the phrase, "at this time."

Resnick Notes Dire Need of Boat Facilities

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today reported on the latest of his Hudson River study and termed the river in "dire need" of additional boat-docking facilities.

The congressman toured the river for the second straight Saturday in an all-out effort to locate trouble areas that can be corrected. The tour commenced in Edenville on the Rondout Creek near Kingston, continued to Poughkeepsie, and returned to Edenville later that day.

Congressman Resnick said that boat-docking facilities were being denied boat owners because places that could be used for parking purposes were covered with debris, rotting barges. He declared this situation to be unfortunate and called for a special survey team, labeling it "Task Force Action."

The congressman said the major obstacle to overcome was not removing the old barge hulks, but determining which agency could handle the job. He said, "A meeting must be set up between my office and every agency that could perform this task. Once it has been settled (Continued on Page 27, Col. 4)

Doctors Have No Cure

Emphysema, Deadly Disease, May Kill Over 64,000 Americans by '72

EDITOR'S NOTE — The fastest growing crippling disease in the United States today is emphysema, a lung disease. At the moment scientists know practically nothing about its basic cause or causes or how to reverse its effects. But the fight goes on. The following is the first in a four-part series dealing with this disease.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A young resident doctor at Bellevue Hospital stood at the bedside of a frail man in his early 60s who was obviously fighting for every breath.

"Look," said the doctor. "Here's the pinnacle of distress — and this poor guy is typical of severe cases of this condition. They act like they just finished the four-minute mile run every minute of their lives."

He referred to respiratory failure — a virtual shut-off of breathing power — which can be brought on by an insidious but potentially devastating and potentially lethal lung disease called emphysema.

Emphysema — pronounced em-fih-see-muh — is rated by the U.S. Public Health Service as the fastest growing crippling disease in the United States today — constituting a public health menace of potentially epidemic proportions unless somehow checked.

The malady, basic cause or causes of which remain unknown, is characterized by a so far irreversible destruction of lung tissue. This results in abnormal distention of the lung, a loss of its wondrous elasticity, and an entrapment of life-sustaining air within it.

There's also obstruction of certain airway tubes — with the over-all result that many victims can have frequent and extreme difficulty in exhaling, and even mild cases can occasionally have such difficulty upon exertion.

While the cause remains to be pinpointed, the Public Health Service, and many private physicians, contend tobacco smoking — especially cigarette smoking — and air pollution are, at the least, among the aggravating factors. Even spokesmen for the tobacco industry concede smoking may be an aggravant — but they challenge any contention it's a proven cause.

The Health Service says the malady has bedeviled man since ancient Greek and Roman days, yet it is a new disease in that only in recent years has it been properly defined; distinguished from other killers with which it has been confused; and at least a start made towards a rational form of treatment and, hopefully, even prevention.

The Health Service says: —at least two million Americans, and possibly up to 14 million, are estimated to have chronic obstructive respiratory diseases — including emphysema; chronic bronchitis, which usually is a fellow-traveler of it; asthma; bronchiectasis; and certain forms of chronic pneumonia.

Emphysema is rated as the most frequent among such ills, although officials grant they do not have exact statistics — and they usually lump two of them together as emphysema and-or bronchitis, so frequently are they found together.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader; and sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee, are emphysema cases.

—Possibly 17,000 Americans become new victims of emphysema yearly.

—more than 15,000 Americans will die of emphysema-bronchitis this year. Reported deaths have risen almost eight fold in the last decade. And, if present rates continue, mortality statistics will list almost 64,000 in 1972.

—it disables one of 14 American workers over 45, striking men 10 times more frequently than women.

—In terms of Social Security pensions, it ranks second only to heart disease as acribler of men in their most productive working years — and is responsible for more invalidism among males than cerebral strokes, cancer, tuberculosis, and mental disorders.

The little man in the Bellevue Hospital bed was a classic, advanced-stage case — a vivid example of what Dr. John H. McClement, chief of Bellevue's chest service, terms the wheezing, breathless men victimized by emphysema or its satellite fellow travelers.

He has been in the hospital about a year. But he's been fighting to breathe for fully 10 years — his emphysema, bad enough in itself, complicated by chronic bronchitis, a vicious blocker of airway tubes.

A tube for intravenous feeding is inserted in the man's right arm.

Can't Eat or Drink

"He can't take the time between breaths to drink or eat when it's hot," said the young resident-physician, Dr. Michael D. Iseman. "That's how short of breath he is."

But now, the little man can stand if no longer — and two nurses shift him from his bed into an iron lung ventilator in which he spends eight hours of every day, off and on, with only his head outside the apparatus.

Doctors try to encourage efforts to breathe without the aid of the mechanical lung — lest patients become overdependent.

But some patients require its refuge around the clock, such as the man nearby who at that time had been encased in one for three months.

Among emphysema sufferers there are also the walking wounded.

They are victims who come periodically to Bellevue's 10-year-old outpatient clinic for emphysema patients — one of the first of a few of such special clinics in the country.

About 25 patients — mostly men — had assembled in a waiting room, representative of 200 patients who come at least once monthly for a check.

Excepting a pale, thin man who holds his head with one hand, they look, to a casual observer, like a group of normal, middle-aged folks who might be waiting, say, in a dentist's office.

"They don't look too bad, but it's only because they're sitting down and expending no effort," says Dr. Anne Davis, clinic director. "You have to see them on exertion. Most of them cannot climb a flight of stairs without becoming breathless; many have trouble walking a single block. Only very small number are able to work — and then only at sedentary jobs."

And what is life like under such circumstances?

"These patients are anxious all the time," said another Bellevue doctor. "They're constantly frightened of being caught short of breath."

To help prevent such episodes — or control them — patients are given hand-operated nebulizers, a kind of squirt gun for shooting medicines down their windpipes to open up blocked bronchial tubes. Some are given bronchial-dilating 'ugs' to swallow. Some also have in their homes — at New York City expense if they can't afford one — a so-called breathing machine — known technically as an Intermittent Positive Pressure Breathing — IPPB — apparatus. This is a kind of glorified gas mask through which a patient can pump room air — and sometimes oxygen — in and out of his belabored lungs when he's in trouble.

Over the past 10 years, some 700 respiratory cripples have sought help at the clinic, but complete followup studies on all have not yet been made.

Of the first 95 who came a decade ago, 70 per cent have died — and in more than two-thirds of the deaths, emphysema was either the major cause or a contributing one. The survivors are still coming to the clinic.

Dr. Davis estimates that around 10 per cent of the 600 to 700 patients have been able to return to work. But she says that even among the best cases, going back to work presents a problem for this reason:

"Many of these patients are aging — the mean age is about 61. And that's really too old for retraining when you consider that a great number of the people coming to this particular clinic have been accustomed to doing heavy labor."

How does Bellevue's outpatient clinic experience shape up in the battle against the disease?

"I really can't say whether it's good or not," the doctor said, "because we don't know how it compares with what might otherwise have happened if we didn't start the clinic."

"However, we have the impression that it's been helpful in that a few people, at least, have been able to return to some kind of work."

But the U.S. Public Health service indicates that more clin-

'Heart' Woman Is Going Home

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Four weeks and one day after she underwent surgery for an artificial heart pump, a Mexico City woman prepared today to leave Methodist Hospital for her home.

Esperanza del Valle Vasquez, the only known survivor of such an operation, was scheduled to hold a brief news conference at the hospital after her release.

Will Show Diagrams
The 37-year-old beauty parlor operator then goes to Houston International Airport where she will be flown home by Romulo O'Farril Jr., director of the Mexico City newspaper, Novedades, in his private plane.

Hospital officials have indicated they will show for the first time diagrams of the pump which assisted Mrs. Vasquez' heart 30 days before it was removed.

Cardiovascular surgeon Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, chairman of the department of surgery at Baylor University School of Medicine, heads the team of experts who developed the pump and performed the three operations at Methodist.

The device, called a left ventricular bypass, reportedly is drastically modified from those used on the first two patients here, both of whom died.

Newsman were allowed to examine a model of the pump inserted in the chest of the first patient, Marcel L. DeRudder, 65, in April.

The second patient, Walter L. McCans, 61, apparently was fitted with a device much like the first, although doctors offered little elaboration.

Mrs. Vasquez is the fifth person and second woman known to have received an artificial heart pump. The others died.

She was strong enough to sit on the edge of her bed only two days after surgeons replaced two of her heart valves and attached the pump in a 3½-hour operation Aug. 8.

On the eighth day, she could walk about her room.

In her first hours in an intensive care unit following the operation, the artificial pump assumed 40 per cent of her heart's pumping load.

American Airmen Aid Children in Hospital

SAIGON (AP) — The lives of children at Bien Hoa mental hospital are brighter because of the work of several American airmen in the field maintenance squadron at Bien Hoa Air Base. The airmen used their off-duty hours to salvage materials to build playground equipment at the hospital. They constructed slides, swings and monkey bars and repaired the existing merry-go-round.

The project began when Lt. Col. Kenneth O. Starr, 49, of Sumter, S.C., approached Chaplain Richard S. McPhee, 37, of Fredonia, N.Y., and asked how his squadron could contribute to the People-to-People program.

80,000 Die of Starvation On Indonesian Island

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP correspondent T. Jeff Williams has been touring the Indonesian islands. In this report he tells of starvation that has so far escaped the world's attention.

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
LOMBOK ISLAND, Indonesia (AP) — The northern half of Lombok is green and fat, but thousands have starved to death this year in the rest of the little island lying beside lush Bali.

Dr. Arban Yusuf, the provincial health director, says there may be 80,000 dead from starvation by January unless they get rice. Appeals have been made to the Indonesian government in Jakarta but so far there has been no response.

Jakarta is also short of rice. There is little hope it will send enough to ward off the starvation.

Yusuf, 33, said 6,000 dead were found in only 22 villages. Leaders of KAMI, the student action front, said their checks show 29,000 have died this year. Lombok has more than 400 villages. At least 150 of them are in the famine belt.

Mountain rivers bring water to the green fields in the north. Farmers harvest two rice crops a year, store their excess and don't have to worry.

The rest of the island relies on rains which have not come. In many areas less than 10 miles separates green rice and dry, dusty fields with only brittle rice stalks. Local officials say they have no authority to take rice from the north and give it to the rest of the island.

Began in November
The hunger began last November. By then, thousands of villagers had eaten what rice they managed to salvage from a poor harvest in May 1965.

From November until last May, they existed on sweet potatoes, leaves and tiny dried beans. But May brought another bad harvest due to lack of rain. Now dozens of villages are without food or down to their last bundles of rice.

"When that is gone, they begin to die again," Dr. Yusuf said. "Right now, today, 20,000 people are facing starvation in Lombok. By January, there may be 80,000 dead unless they somehow get rice."

The death toll in some villages on the island of 1.5 million people is over 4 per cent, he reported.

Need 15,000 Tons
Yusuf said he needs more than 15,000 tons of rice to feed the famine belt until the next May harvest.

The villages are heavy with hopelessness. Children with stomachs distended by malnutrition and rib cages pushing through their dusty skin sit abjectly in the shade. Small children and old people poke the dry earth with knives and sticks seeking overlooked sweet potatoes.

In desperate Klauan, an old woman wearing only rags around her waist sits with two naked children in the dirt cracking a few beans with a stone.

The children and the old people die first, Yusuf said. The older children and the parents must be kept alive to begin the planting when the rains come again.

Farmers will not kill their cattle to feed their starving children; if the water buffalo is killed to save the children, how will the farmer plant his rice next year, Yusuf asked.

Rotron Announce New Pension Plan; Shares $336,450

Approval of a pension plan for retirement age employees was announced Friday by J. C. van Rijn, president of Rotron Manufacturing Company, Woodstock.

All Rotron employees assembled on the grounds of the company's main plant in Woodstock Friday afternoon to hear the president's announcement that the Board of Directors had approved a pension plan effective last July 1. Under the newly instituted plan employees will be eligible for a lifetime pension payable each month during retirement after age 65; or earlier if disabled after completing 15 years of service. The pension is over and above that payable under Social Security.

The new company pension benefit was hailed by employees, who already receive benefits from a profit sharing plan begun several years ago by Rotron. Many employees involved also learned that they will be working out of a new plant site in the Township of Olive, once Rotron has built a proposed plant on a 155-acre woodland area near Ashokan—a plant capable of accommodating up to 2,000 people.

Now in Effect

Under the retirement plan, which is now in effect, the amount payable will depend upon the employee's length of service and average pay rate during the five years prior to retirement.

Between the plan and primary Social Security benefits an employee with 30 years service will have retirement income of about 40 per cent of his pre-retirement pay rate. Those with longer service will receive more and those with shorter service less; however, the minimum total benefit including Social Security is 35 per cent of pay for those with 15 or more years of service.

Rotron has also just closed its books for the fiscal year and at the gathering which saw the announcement of the pension plan and the new plant, employees also received profit sharing checks in the year end distribution. van Rijn announced that both shipments and net profits again set new records and that their share of the company's profits on audited figures for the fiscal year amounted to $707,883.

This was equivalent to 24.3 per cent of base pay to the participating employees. Three profit sharing payments had been made previously during the year and the final sum had been made previously during the year and the final sum distributed to approximately 600 employees on Friday was $336,450.

Report on Sales

In a release just made to the company's stockholders, it was reported that consolidated sales were $14,580,818 and net income $1,090,825, or $2.42 per share, for the year ended June 30.

In an addenda to the pension plan announcement, van Rijn said the new system would permit employees to increase their pensions by voluntary contributions of up to 2 per cent of pay, which would make it possible to have retirement income of over 50 per cent of pay.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

I've found a super-terrific use for those cute little plastic boxes in which we buy berries, cherry tomatoes, etc. . .

I always have a couple of sponges in the kitchen and one in the bathroom. After using them it was a problem where to put them to dry—plus the fact that they soon got a rather sour, musty odor.

What to do? I turn one of those boxes upside down and place my sponge on top of it!

The air circulates on all sides, drying it quickly and thus helping to prevent that musty smell. And the little boxes come in such pretty colors that it's no problem at all to find one that looks nice on your counter top by the sink.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Empty baby food jars can be used to heat small amounts of leftover food. For example, several jars can be heated in a saucepan at the same time for a lunchtime snack.

The food can be eaten directly from the jars if one wants to skip doing extra dishes.

If there is only a small amount of the leftover foods, they can be stored in the jars in the refrigerator (until you are ready to heat it). It saves washing additional containers.

Ann Cunningham

Dear Heloise:

When ordering magazine subscriptions, I always write on the check (and also my check stub) how many months the magazines will be delivered.

We sometimes get notices for renewal as much as three months before the subscription expires and the notices never indicate when the subscriptions run out. This is confusing. People usually forget how long they are entitled to receive magazines.

By using this method, I can always verify when my subscriptions run out because I keep my check stubs for years.

Housewife

Dear Heloise:

Here's a suggestion if you have to take some unpleasant tasting liquid medicine. I have found that if I drink it through a straw, much less of the taste gets on my taste buds . . . and the task is not as unpleasant.

Judy

Dear Heloise:

When the lace and net curlers caps are ready to be discarded I wash them and make pretty party or evening dresses out of them for little teen dolls. A white cap can be made into a pretty wedding gown.

Hazel McKinney

Dear Heloise:

If a person likes a cool bedroom and likes to read in bed, here's how to keep "snug as a bug in a rug" while doing it.

Get into bed and pull up the covers as usual. Then put an old flannel or other warm robe on backwards, tucking it in behind your shoulders and leaving it outside the covers.

Hilda Weeks

Dear Heloise:

I have a thick carpet which does not allow the front door to clear a scatter rug.

Every time it rains I spread newspapers in front of the door, and after my three boys open and close the door when entering the house, I have messy torn papers.

I just solved this problem: Now I lay a flannel-backed plastic tablecloth on the carpet in front of the door. The cloth stays put and the door clears it beautifully.

No more mud, torn papers or mess.

Ann Tyler

Dear Heloise:

For years I wrapped the remainder of a cut onion in waxed paper, etc.

Now I place the onion in a little glass jar and cap it. The odor is enclosed, and I can see the onion and I won't forget it.

Plan Field Trip For Identification Of Night Sounds

The John Burroughs Natural History Society is planning a field trip to identify night sounds on Thursday 7:45 p. m. Anyone interested may join the members by meeting at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale on Route 32, just south of Route 213. This will not be a strenuous trip and participants are requested to bring a flashlight.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the John Burroughs Natural History Society may contact Mrs. James Pettis, Rt. 5, Box 45A, Kingston, 12401.

The next field trip will be an all day Hawk Watch on September 17 at the Mohonk Overpass. Details will be given later.

Hercules to Construct New Miss. Facility

Construction of a multimillion-dollar crude oil distillation facility at Hattiesburg, Miss., will begin immediately, it was announced today by Hercules Incorporated. The firm has a local plant in Port Ewen.

This unit, with an annual capacity to process 60,000 tons at Hattiesburg, will become the fourth tall oil distillation facility Hercules operates in the United States. Other plants are at Savannah, Ga.; Franklin, Va.; and Portland, Ore.

The Badger Company, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass., has been awarded the contract for design and construction, with a completion date set for the fourth quarter of 1967.

Crude oil will be supplied by mid-South kraft pulp mills. It is estimated that the operation will require about 30 employees.

Four Presidents were born in April, Jefferson, Buchanan, Monroe and Grant.

Thruway May Use Planes to Enforce Laws

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Thruway motorists, beware of that airplane overhead—it may contain a state policeman checking your speed.

The Thruway Authority announced today it would begin using rented airplanes to test their effectiveness in enforcing traffic laws.

The pilots will use stop watches to time vehicles between highway markings and radio reports of violations to patrol cars on the ground.

The authority said 18 other states already were using airplanes or helicopters for the same purpose. Illinois and Ohio, for example, have reported high conviction rates from such arrests, the agency said.

Besides spotting speeders, the planes will report such other violations as making "U" turns, following too closely or using traffic lanes improperly.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 6, 1966

'SCHOOL'S OPEN' CAMPAIGN

Ulster County motorists have more than 31,000 reasons to heed the appeal of the Automobile Club of New York's "School's Open—Drive Carefully" campaign.

Each of the reasons is a boy or girl who will be crossing streets to and from Ulster County schools this fall.

The danger of traffic accidents involving school children is greatest during the first few weeks of the new school year. Fresh from vacation, children may forget to be cautious and it is up to motorists to help safeguard them by driving extra carefully.

The Automobile Club of New York together with affiliated clubs throughout the state initiated their first "School's Open" campaign in 1946. The program has been conducted ever since with excellent results. The campaign's success may be gauged by a look at official statistics which show a marked reduction in traffic fatalities among children from 5 to 14 years of age in New York State in every year since 1945, the year before the first campaign. During the same period, both motor vehicle registrations and the school population have risen to all-time highs.

The more than 22,500 posters being displayed at major intersections, business and shopping districts and school crossings are but a part of the Auto Club's fall safety effort. The posters will be augmented by 160,000 bumper strips carrying the "School's Open" message on public, private and commercial vehicles. Then, too, nearly 30,000 AAA-sponsored School Safety Patrol boys and girls will be stationed at school crossings to assist police and civilian guards.

This safety program deserves the wholehearted support of all persons interested in traffic safety.

SIBERIA FAILS TO LURE

The Russians have been trying to populate Siberia for generations.

The czars, and after them the Communists, did it by force. The vast land, half as large as the United States, was a handy natural prison for criminals and political undesirables.

Today they are still trying, but for different reasons.

The Nazi invasion taught the Russians the danger of concentrating their industrial complexes in the West. Siberia is fabulously rich in untapped mineral resources. Not least, there are 700 million reasons to the south—the crowded and no longer friendly Chinese who, the Kremlin fears, may one day come to abhor a relatively vacant Siberia on their border much as Mother Nature abhors a vacuum.

The methods are different, too. Official propaganda extols the natural beauty of the land as a vacation and living place. Prospective settlers are offered a number of attractive financial inducements. Patriotism is appealed to.

In recent years, hundreds of thousands of Russians responded voluntarily or not so voluntarily to the call of "Go east, young man."

Unfortunately, in the same years at least tens of thousands of them have left harsh and still primitive Siberia and come back to the fleshpots of the west. The Soviets don't reveal the figures, but there is evidence that labor turnover is a serious problem.

America was in a similar situation a hundred years or so ago. Like the U.S.S.R., the U.S. government also offered inducements to settlers to go west. There was one fundamental difference, however.

American pioneers were offered land—land that they could own and pass on to their children, and the freedom to enjoy

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
GOLDWATER AND THE GRAND CANYON DAM

A scientist has come up with an idea for damming up Long Island Sound and turning it into a fresh water lake. Just why it would be any more useful than it is a salt water is a mystery. The same polluted rivers would still flow into it, and the scouring ocean tides, which now clean it out, would not be able to perform their sanitizing function. Soon we would have an eastern seaboard version of Lake Erie, where the fish are reputedly dying for lack of oxygen. True enough, if the rivers themselves were cleaned, a fresh water sound would make a handsome reservoir. But, with pollution taken out of the rivers, no new lake would be needed to supply the needs of eastern cities; they could take their water direct from the rivers themselves.

If the East doesn't need any more fresh water lakes, this can't be said of the West. There the rivers are still relatively unpolluted. The problem is to catch the water for distribution to desert lands which could be the fruitful Imperial Valleys of the future. So, if the Hualapai project for building a dam across the Colorado River one hundred and fifty miles downstream from the great sightseeing point of El Tovar could be carried out, it would mean a lot to the dry central valleys of Arizona.

The Sierra Club and other conservationist organizations are all against the proposed Hualapai Dam. They claim it would back the water up in the Colorado, destroy much wild life, and ruin the beauty of one of the really great wonders of nature. But that eminent Arizonan, Barry Goldwater, says the embattled conservationists are all wrong in this instance. Moreover, Barry Goldwater is speaking as one who holds that conservation is an integral part of the conservative philosophy. After all, the two words come from the same root.

The man who led the Republican Party to the 1964 defeat may not be trusted on the subject of atomic military policy, which involves a question of judgement. But nobody has ever questioned Barry's honesty. So, when he plaintively asks his friends to believe what he has to say about the Hualapai project, these friends owe Barry Goldwater the courtesy of hearing him through.

If the proposed dam would "inundate and flood the Grand Canyon," Barry says he would be against it. But he argues that it would do no such thing. In a letter to his friends Barry says he has "practically lived in this canyon, photographed it, studied it and explored it for fifty years of my life."

He goes on to trace the path of the proposed reservoir from its suggestion beginning, which would be "fifty-four miles below El Tovar, to the dam itself some ninety-four miles further on downstream." For its first thirteen miles, says Goldwater, "it will form the northwest boundary of the Grand Canyon National Park." Thus it would not be in the park at all.

Lower down, the reservoir would "be bounded on the north by the Lake Mead National Recreation area and on the south by the Hualapai Reservation. The water behind Hualapai Dam would rise 47 feet above the streambed in a canyon that is over 5,000 feet deep in that area. . . . Close to one hundred miles of the living river in the park itself would remain completely unaffected by Hualapai Dam or the lake behind it. The lake, far from impairing the beauty of the canyon, would add immeasurably to its accessibility and thus make it available to hundreds of thousands. . . . The Hualapai Indians want the dam built so they can become economically independent. . . . The little wild life in the canyon, and what there is would not be destroyed in any event."

Since Goldwater knows Arizona as no city fellow can possibly know it, and since his words have a surveyor's quality of precision, maybe the letter-writing conservationists who have been denouncing the Hualapai project should go out and check on the business from first-hand observation. There may be good reasons for objecting to the dam that escape Barry Goldwater; for one thing, he doesn't mention the thesis set forth in a book called "Big Dam Foolishness" that silting will, in time, ruin all our reservoirs made from damming swift-running rivers. But we have had too much emotionalism in the conservationists' resentments, and Barry Goldwater at least deserves some answers based on his own surveyor-type approach. The DOCTOR SAYS

Thought for Labor Day:
Work Aids Good Health
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In our annual salute to labor we too often lose sight of the blessing of work. Kahlil Gibran in his classic, "The Prophet," said, "Work is love made visible," and E. E. Schattschneider said, "Work brings its own relief." Although it is true that the job that satisfies one man's emotional needs may be mere drudgery for another, some form of useful work is the greatest boon a person can have. Not only does work create the zest for a weekend of change or a holiday, it is the basis of both mental and physical health.

It is no accident that large armed forces hospitals, Veterans Administration hospitals and even state mental hospitals have seen fit to install departments of occupational therapy. Idleness leads to unhealthy introspection, a preoccupation with one's own minor sources of irritation. Whereas the devil finds work, or rather mischief, for idle hands to do, a job of work well-done is a source of healing self-satisfaction.

This has been amply illustrated at the VA hospital in Brockton, Mass., where a program of work therapy called CHIRP (Community Hospital-Industry Rehabilitation Project) has enabled some veterans, who would otherwise have had to spend the rest of their lives in an institution, to return to useful jobs in their communities. The project is based on the belief, supported by observed results, that the maximum benefit comes from training for a specific job.

Labor unions have been farsighted enough to realize that a union member might at any time become a patient and that a patient may become a union member. They have, therefore, lent their support to the project.

One moral to be drawn from this experience is that every adolescent should train himself for service in a field that stimulates his interest. The man who goes through life at odds with his job is not only missing the whole point of life—he is paving the way for a variety of ailments that are produced or aggravated by chronic disgruntlement.

Q—My doctor prescribed saltpeter to be taken with my food. A friend told me that it is dangerous to take this every day. Is that true? Of what value is it?

A—Saltpeter is potassium nitrate. It was given routinely to soldiers in World War I to subdue their "animal spirits." It has also been given in the past, to control waterlogging of tissues. Since modern water pills are much more effective, it is rarely given any more for any purpose.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

whatever fruits of that land they could coax out by their own labor.

The result was that a continent which Jefferson thought would take a thousand years to fill up was settled in a century.

Land and freedom. It is too much to expect the Communists to adopt such revolutionary ideas.

But if they really wanted to populate Siberia, they could easily drain western Russia of people overnight in the greatest migration in history.

Low Man on the Totem Pole

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — September 11, election day in South Viet Nam, will be a major test of Viet Cong power.

For the first time, on one day all over South Viet Nam, the Communists have decided to put their chips on one co-ordinated objective — to keep candidates from running and people from voting. This is disclosed in a series of agent reports and captured documents.

The Viet Cong leaders have decided that if they can frighten off most candidates and most voters they will convince the Vietnamese the government is weak and that the VC are the real power in the country.

The captured documents and agent reports don't make it clear how the Communists expect to explain away failure.

For a heavy vote on Sept. 11 — despite widespread Communist terrorism to keep Vietnamese from the polls — will expose Viet Cong weakness.

How far the Communists are willing to go is shown in these sample reports from captured documents, agent reports and open sources:

In Binh Tuy Province, VC squads entered villages, told the people they would be murdered if they voted.

In a hamlet in Long Khanh Province, VC agents told the people they'd throw grenades into voting booths on election day.

All the inhabitants of a village in Hau Nghia Province were assembled by VC cadres and told that all who voted would be decapitated.

In Long An Province, VC officials issued orders to their cadres to block off roads leading to the polls election day. Guerrilla units were ordered to gather near polling places and cause confusion.

In Binh Thuan Province, the Communists held political indoctrination courses for VC agents. These cadres were to return to their VC hamlets and conduct 10-day courses in election disrupting techniques.

These courses included instruction in invalidating ballots and on printing false ballots and false voter cards. Cadres were ordered to follow through election day with harassing gunfire and armed attacks on the polls.

Other hamlets report the VC are forcibly taking voters registration cards. Without them, the people cannot vote.

A VC bomb thrown at a pre-election political rally-carnival at Hue killed 26.

But some Viet Cong attacks have backfired already.

The Communists raided a political party headquarters in Quang Tin Province, killing party leaders and wounding the leading local candidate so badly he lost both legs.

But this tough candidate has sent word he intends to run anyway.

Most eligible adults 18 and over have registered for the election. Out of a total adult population 18 and over, estimated at 7 1/2 million, more than 5 million have filled out the pre-election forms. Most not registering live in Red-controlled areas.

If the VC fail in their efforts, after having made the election a terrorist issue, they will have committed a political blunder of first order.

Claims Congress Has Dozens Of Foreign Policy Experts

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There seem to be dozens of secretaries of state nowadays inside Congress who are trying to run the foreign policy of the United States. As delicate a subject as the number of American troops to be kept on duty in Europe is pushed into the open by proposing a Senate resolution calling on the administration to reassess the military situation there and bring several divisions home.

It is inconceivable that, in these days of large payments to countries outside the United States involving a steady outflow of gold, there should be any lack of consideration of the entire problem by the administration here. But the Senators who have every means of learning instantly from the department of state and the defense department why their idea is inexpedient and unwise, did not do this, instead, they gave the whole matter worldwide publicity and stirred up new worries in the field of diplomacy. It is extremely difficult for foreign policy to be conducted in such a confused way.

The administration was quick to let it be known that it doesn't favor the reduction of American troops in Europe at this time but that some day it might give further attention to this question when the problem of reorganizing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is solved and there is a clear idea of what the European members plan to do to increase their own forces.

Problem Not Simple While it is true that other NATO countries have not met their troop commitments, the problem isn't going to be simplified — but rather intensified — if the United States starts to pull out. What effect would this have on Soviet policy? What would be the impact on the Communist bloc nations, some of whose people have been hoping for more and more freedom from military threats? Wouldn't American withdrawal mean that the Soviet Union would be left dominant on the continent? Wouldn't the West German people start to feel apprehensive that they could suddenly be invaded by the very large number of Russian troops who are constantly kept mobilized?

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Democrat, said in a speech to the Senate on Thursday, it would be "folly" to cut down any allied commitment of troops unless the Soviet government made corresponding reductions. Negotiations at Geneva to bring about some form of disarmament haven't made much progress thus far. Hence, the result of a serious diminution of western forces on duty in Europe would be to increase dependence of nuclear weapons in an emergency. This is a disconcerting development. For the whole emphasis in the disarmament parleys has been on finding ways to reduce the necessity of using nuclear bombs in a "limited" war.

All these subjects are a highly complicated nature and can best be handled by the Department of State, which is kept informed through its ambassadors and ministers on the best time to effect any reduction in armament. To give away a bargaining point by removing American forces and by weakening the western position is not good sense. Nor does it make diplomacy's task any easier.

Discount Unity Unfortunately, the United States cannot count in unity in Western Europe on its own side, as General de Gaulle has become a "loner" and seems to have forgotten that "isolation" can produce problems instead of solving them. Twice the United States withdrew or held aloof from Europe, only to face eventually a greater emergency because the troops of the United States were not on duty in Europe.

The French president's deviation from the American side in the Vietnam argument, moreover, can only lead to more disunity in Western Europe. For as the French government grows indifferent to American military help, this can only increase the demand of the West German war scares, instead of peace, would seem to be emphasized by the idea of withdrawing a substantial number of American troops now from Europe. The President and Secretary of State ought to be allowed to run foreign policy. 1966. Publishers (Copyright, 1966, Newspaper Syndicate)

Diabetes Group Reviews History, Slates Meeting

Ulster Chapter of the New York Diabetes Association, Inc., an organization having been formed on March 23, 1966, in a short span of time has been bereft by the loss of its Physician-Advisor Doctor Curtis P. Bight, and Ways and Means Chairman Jack Page, (father of a diabetic son) courageously and cooperatively exhibited at the Ulster County Fair.

The response by members and the public in general was heart warming. A quantity of free literature concerning diabetes was available. Literature remaining was distributed to all vehicles on the fair grounds as it was the hope of those in charge of the exhibit that no one would be leaving the 1966 version of the Ulster County Fair without having heard or read something of the nature of diabetes.

Dr. George Gabriel Kean will be the speaker when the Chapter resumes sessions on Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Benedictine School of Nursing. Dr. Kean will speak on the "Emotional Factors in Diabetes." Arriving in the United States in 1947 after he and his family were forced to leave their native country, Vienna, Austria. Dr. Kean attended Brooklyn College where he received his BA in Psychology. He received an MS and PhD from Yeshiva University.

Dr. Kean spent several years at Jewish Chronic Disease Hospital in Brooklyn, where he started as intern, became a resident and then staff psychologist. He was director of psychology at Maimonides Hospital in Far Rockaway, a school for exceptional children, before becoming a member of the staff at Hillside Hospital in Queens.

For the past five years he has been handling individual cases. He was involved in the beginning of the Vocational and Counseling Service of the New York Diabetes Association and has helped to develop its present program. Dr. Kean is married and the father of an infant son.

All members are urged to attend. All diabetics and persons interested in diabetes are cordially invited to attend the meeting which will be followed by a question and answer period.

Prints May Identify

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP)—Medical examiners planned to take fingerprints today in hopes of determining the identity of a middle-aged woman whose body was washed ashore Monday from Lake Erie.

Officials said she may be Celia Truchon, a 47-year-old ship's cook who tumbled overboard Aug. 26 from the Canadian freighter, Gleneagle. The woman was reported lost off Dunkirk, south of here.

The body was discovered by security officers of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., on whose property it was found.

Jail Trouble Is Started as TV Lensmen Arrive

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—

Prisoners in the San Francisco County Jail broke into an hour-long frenzy of mattress-burning and window-breaking Monday as 40 pickets arrived outside with signs protesting jail conditions.

Sheriff Matthew Carberry called it a staged demonstration. He said news media were notified in advance of the picketing and that the wild antics of the prisoners began just as television cameramen arrived.

The six-story jail is 10 miles south of San Francisco in a rural area. About 200 of the jail's 575 prisoners were involved, officials said.

Burning mattresses in a sixth-floor cell block sent up smoke and flame. Another fire was started in a garbage can. The crash of shattered glass and the clang of tin cups banging on jail bars could be heard a half-mile away.

The prisoners made no attempt to attack guards. A call for guard reinforcements was canceled.

Outside, a group of pickets carried signs protesting the jail food and charging racial discrimination. About one-third of the prisoners are Negroes.

Carberry denied there was "any intention of discrimination" in the jail but said there may have been instances when guards called prisoners "niggers" or "nigger lovers."

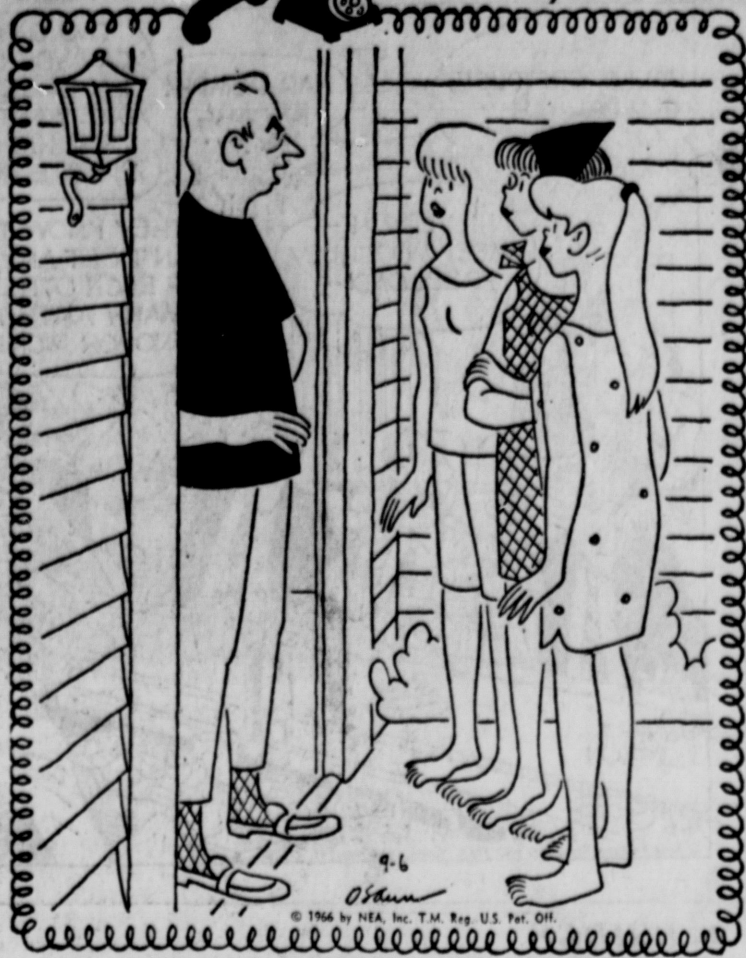

He said another cook was added recently to the jail. "By comparison with other institutions, the food is satisfactory," the sheriff said. "A county jail is not a hotel."

Saloon to Sanctuary

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The congregation of Faith Lutheran Church now has a $140,000 place of worship after a 21-month period during which it held Sunday services in the Red Barn Social hall, with children's classes in the Awful Awful Saloon.

TB: Groggy But Game

Tuberculosis, once the top disease killer, now is often said to be "on the run." And it's true that the annual number of new cases grows smaller.

Yet TB experts have been voicing their dissatisfaction with the pace of progress. The trouble is, as a medical journal recently pointed out, that the "run" has shown signs of slowing down to an easy trot.

How serious is the TB problem today? New active cases still number nearly 50,000 a year. There are 105,000 known active cases, plus another 110,000 inactive or possibly active, and doubtless many more unreported.

In 1959 it was generally agreed among experts that a 10 per cent reduction in the U. S. case rate should be possible in each ensuing year. But in spite of massive efforts by public and private anti-TB agencies, the decline has slowed down to an average of less than 4 per cent since 1960.

Many reasons are evident to the expert eye. Growing slums and lingering poverty encourage contagious disease. In sparser areas, a decreasing number of active cases makes the remaining ones harder to find. Another reason is the shorter hospital term made possible by effective drugs; the patient must continue his treatment at a clinic, and many neglect to follow through.

The showdown in the retreat of the TB menace is being met by increased efforts on the part of its antagonists. There is greater emphasis on drug treatment to fight contagiousness; a quest for improved TB detecting tools; intensified research; and a long range study by the National Tuberculosis Association to find out how to improve clinic effectiveness. TB won't be eradicated tomorrow or the day after, but plenty is being done to get it back "on the run."

Careful Trump Handling Pays

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Declarer at a suit contract wants to draw trumps in order to keep his opponents from ruffing some of his side suit winners and the general rule is to pull trumps as soon as you can afford to do so.

You can't afford to pull trumps when you need dummy's trumps to ruff some of your side suit losers. Occasionally you may need them to keep your opponents from forcing you to use up one of your own trumps.

There is a simple way for South to play his four spade contract. He can ruff the second heart and go right after the trump suit. If trumps break 3-3 he will concede a trick to the ace of clubs and make five odd. Trumps break 3-3 sometimes but a 4-2 break is more likely.

They break 4-2 this time and the simple play is not going to work. South will run out of trumps before he gets time to set up a club trick and will lose his contract.

He will be able to blame the loss on that unfortunate trump division but the real reason will be poor trump management.

South must not go after trumps until he has knocked out the ace of clubs or at least played clubs once. It is all right for him to ruff the second heart. Then he must lead a club. If East ducks, South abandons the suit and runs out his contract with spades and diamonds. If East takes his ace of

This play gives up the chance to make an overtrick but who cares about overtricks when the contract is in danger!

Fishermen can enjoy their sport on nearly 40,000 miles of streams and more than 700,000 acres of lakes on privately owned commercial forest lands.

Extend Filing Date For Forest Ranger

An extension of the filing period for the Forest Ranger examination was announced today by the New York State Conservation Department.

The final filing date was postponed from September 12 to September 26 because of a salary increase for the position. Governor Rockefeller recently announced the reallocation — from Salary Grade 8 to Grade 10 — of Forest Rangers. Grade 10 has a starting salary of $5,295 a year, with five annual increases to $6,525. This pay increase is expected to encourage additional applications during the extended filing period.

There are now twenty-one openings for Conservation Department Forest Rangers, and additional openings are expected from time to time.

Qualifications for the position remain the same. An applicant should be a graduate of the New York State Ranger School or have completed two years of college study in forestry. A high school graduate without college training may qualify with two years of forestry, lumbering, or woods experience. An applicant should be at least five feet eight inches tall and weigh at least 150 pounds.

The State civil service examination for Forest Ranger will be held October 15 at locations throughout the State. For details and an application, interested outdoorsmen should write to Recruitment Unit 285, New York State Department of Civil Service, State Campus, Albany 12226.

Issues Threaten Adjournment by November Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns today from Labor Day visits home, with two hot issues for immediate attention and a pile of unfinished business threatening the chances of adjournment before the Nov. 8 election.

Senate leaders expect to move promptly for consideration of the civil rights bill with its controversial provisions against discrimination in some housing.

If — as is expected — opponents adopt filibuster tactics, the bill may be set aside while the Senate completes action on fiscal and other major legislation. The civil rights debate ultimately is expected to consume weeks.

The House has scheduled consideration Wednesday of a bill to limit certain bank deposit interest. It is the only legislation bearing directly on the hot political issue of expensive and tight money, but it touches only one facet of that problem — the competition between banks and savings and loan institutions for money to finance mortgages.

The main fight will come on a choice between two versions of the legislation. One, by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., House Banking Committee chairman, would put a 4.5 per cent ceiling on interest paid on time deposits — those left with banks for a fixed period — up to $100,000. The other, backed by the Johnson administration, would leave the ceiling up to the Federal Reserve Board.

Patman contended in a letter to all Democratic members that his bill is the only one that "plainly says it is the intent of Congress that interest rates be lowered."

More than 20 bills await reconciliation of differences between Senate and House versions. Three major ones may see action this week.

One is the $3.5-billion foreign aid authorization, which lacks only Senate approval of compromises. Another is the minimum wage bill, still facing a fight in the House as to whether to put the new top rate, $1.60 an hour, into effect in 1968 or 1969. The third is the $58-billion defense appropriation. The Senate and House are in dispute over provisions authorizing the President to call up some Reserves. He has not asked for such authority.

Iowa, Nevada to convention, and Secretary of State Gary L. Cameron. None of the state's House delegation — six Democrats and one Republican — is opposed for renomination.

Sawyer's principal challengers in Nevada are Charles Sprin, a former state attorney general, and Dist. Atty. Edward G. Marshall of Las Vegas. Just last week, the State Gaming Commission reported it had looked into reports of underworld rackets and ties with gambling and had found no evidence of this.

The report said federal activities in relation to gambling — and published reports of underworld links — began shortly after Robert F. Kennedy, now the New York Democratic senator, became attorney general in 1961.

It attributed to federal agents: Planting of electronic listening devices in homes as well as casinos.

Plans for massive raids on casinos which it said would have brought "disastrous publicity to the state" and which it declared were sidetracked after Sawyer met with President John F. Kennedy.

Kennedy commented that "President Kennedy was at no time in any way involved."

Paul Laxalt, now lieutenant governor, is the prospective Republican nominee for governor. He faces nominal primary opposition.

MANILA (AP) — More than 1,000 followers of a religious fanatic have surrendered to government forces since a pitched battle Saturday in which six persons were killed. The Philippine Constabulary said Victoriano Sihagan, the self-styled "descendant of God," and several of his men were still at large.

Politics Chase After Americans During Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Politics chased after Americans on their Labor Day pursuit of pleasure Monday, setting up camp where there were hands to grasp and ears to listen — at beaches, in picnic groves, and on fairground midway.

From coast to coast, some stopped swimming, eating and sunning long enough to hear campaigners. President Johnson addressed hundreds of thousands of persons on an openly political tour of the Midwest, including a crowd of 100,000 at Fairfield County fairgrounds near Lancaster, Ohio, while California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown talked to picnickers in his home state and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller roamed New York City's beaches looking for votes.

Johnson traveled to Detroit, Battle Creek, Mich., and Dayton and Lancaster, Ohio, officially opening the Democratic party's 1966 campaign. The theme of labor ran through his speech in Detroit.

Organized labor, the President said, "can't make all the gains it wants — all at once... for labor, self-restraint means keeping its wage demands within reason, and its productivity at a maximum."

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Frank W. Greenal of Jamestown died Monday night in General Hospital of burns suffered earlier in the evening when his mattress caught fire. Firemen said the fire apparently was started by careless smoking. He lived at 6 Lincoln St.

Faces Court-Martial For Refusal to Fight

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — Refusal to fight in Viet Nam brings a New York soldier before a general court-martial today.

Pvt. Dennis Mora, 25, is charged with willful disobedience of a superior officer's order by refusing to enter a military vehicle which was to transport him last month from Ft. Dix to nearby McGuire Air Force Base for air movement to Viet Nam.

For the offense, the Uniform Code of Military Justice provides as maximum punishment a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years imprisonment at hard labor.

Mora was one of three soldiers who while on leave June 30 declared at a news conference in New York they would not fight in Viet Nam.

Dutchess Woman Stricken Fatally While at Wheel

Rena Spanish, 68, of Pleasant Valley, died from a heart attack while operating her car on Route 44 near Pine Hill Road, Dutchess County, about 5:45 p. m. Monday. A passenger in the car, Keith Longmore, 15, of Bronx received lacerations of the right leg when the car left the road and struck a stone wall. Both were taken to Vassar Hospital by the Pleasant Valley Fire Department Rescue Squad. Mrs. Spanish was pronounced dead on arrival.

The accident was investigated by Dutchess County's sheriff department and William Thompson, assistant medical examiner of Dutchess County who ordered an autopsy.

According to sheriff's office investigators the car was traveling west on Route 44 near Pleasant Valley when the operator was sized and the car went off the right of the highway and struck a wall.

An autopsy was ordered performed today by assistant Medical Examiner Thompson. That examination disclosed that Mrs. Spanish had suffered a heart attack, causing her to lose control of the vehicle.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRICK

Better labor and management relations, through the years, have helped to give us an enviable standard of living. . . . Better homes . . . more and better automobiles . . . more and better food . . . better clothing . . . longer, paid-for vacations . . . insurance, retirement and other fringe benefits . . . are tangible evidence of labor and management's progress.

These materialistic benefits brought on our present age of fast production with equally fast consumption. We have to produce, produce, produce—and consume, consume, consume. In this situation, no legislation can ever change the truth that wages and profit can be determined by anything other than a man's capacity to produce. In today's wage scale, an 8th grade education equips one to produce around $4400.00 peak income. A high school graduate is educated to produce a peak of around $6500.00. . . . The college graduate will be educated to produce higher peaks.

Preparation through education faces not only labor. It confronts management personnel and professional people too. Every one these days has to know more to earn more. Those who discipline themselves to seek and earn a better education will be rewarded. Those who don't—won't. . . .

Texas Farmers, Families Join In Wage Protest

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Waiting for what they and other Rio Grande Valley farm workers call a "decent wage," Reyes Alaniz and Benito Trevino stood on the steps of the Texas Capitol today.

They were all that was left in sight of 10,000 farm workers, union men, their families, students and others who yelled from the Capitol lawn Monday for a $1.25 hourly minimum wage.

Cheered by the presence of Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and a message from Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., they walked the capital city's streets and gathered on the historic old lawn for a Labor Day rally.

Gov. John B. Connally, former secretary of the Navy under President John F. Kennedy and severely wounded when the president was assassinated in Dallas, was absent.

The noisy, but orderly crowd answered with loud "vivas" and rhythmic hand clapping each time Yarborough or Kennedy was mentioned. For Connally there were jibes and catcalls.

Behind Alaniz and Trevino, as the rally crowd dispersed with shouts and songs, were 36 days of a hot, wearing march through the searing July and August heat from the Rio Grande Valley, 400 miles to the south.

They and about 80 others had made the long trek to dramatize their demands for the $1.25 hourly minimum in place of pay they reported ranged from 20 cents to $1 per hour.

To Stay at Capitol

The two farm workers and others of their number say they will stay on the Capitol steps until the Texas Legislature passes the necessary measures.

The legislature meets Jan. 10. Alaniz and Trevino made every step of the protest march which began July 4 in Rio Grande City, with 47 persons. Monday, swelled by thousands of union men and their families, it grew to 10,000 who stood and sat, crammed together in a sweltering sun, to climax the journey.

Few speakers from the Capitol steps missed a chance to take a potshot at Gov. Connally. His arch political rival, Yarborough, referred several times to himself as the highest elected official in Texas. He criticized Connally for not being out to hear "what the people want."

Yarborough joined the marchers — who hiked three miles from St. Edward's University to the Capitol — just a few blocks short of their goal, waving to crowds along the curb and hugging those at the front of the long procession.

"This march is for economic progress and social justice," said Yarborough, shaking the marchers' hands and darting outside their ranks to pat spectators on the back.

Connally told the marchers Wednesday he would not be in Austin Labor Day and would not see them if he were. He refused to call a special legislative session to enact a minimum wage bill.

Free of Charge

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Sidney Ashley, 81, had been told by the city to make repairs to his old house, or move out.

Ashley said he didn't have the money to make repairs and his neighbors were sympathetic. So when they saw workmen tearing down the front porch, they assumed the city had ordered the house demolished and tried to throw the workmen off the property.

Only then did they learn that the men had been sent by a contractor, who had learned of Ashley's plight and offered to fix the house free of charge.

Sergeant First Class John Keller, who has been spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keller, 18 Hanratty Street, Kingston, left Thursday for Hanan, Germany. He had only recently returned from a year's tour of duty in Korea.

Most of his recent leave was spent with his wife, Erika, and son, Edward, at their home in Columbus, Ga. His family plans to join him in Germany as soon as quarters are available.

Faces Murder 2nd In Shooting of Rochester Man

HAMLIN, N.Y. (AP) — A 54-year-old farm worker faces a charge of second-degree murder in the shooting of a Rochester man during a scuffle in this community northwest of Rochester.

State Police accused Peter Hursey of Hamlin of shooting Chester Robinson, 64, Saturday night. Robinson's body was found Sunday night in the back seat of his automobile parked on Drake Road.

The shooting occurred during an argument over Robinson charging Hursey a dollar for transportation, troopers said. A .22-caliber revolver used in the shooting was recovered in Hursey's room, investigators said.

Robinson's address was 85 Manhattan St. Hursey lives on Redman Road.

Favorites Fade Into Reruns or New TV Times

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The long holiday weekend gave those who stayed home a chance for a final farewell to some of the television programs that have outlived their usefulness and are about to move — most of them into reruns, but others into new positions.

Sunday night, there were the final reruns of "My Favorite Martian," "Branded," "Wackiest Ship in the Army" and the one to be most sorely missed — "Perry Mason." All move into non-network channels in their reincarnations.

"To Tell the Truth" had its final prime-time exposure Monday night before it moves into a new Sunday afternoon berth, and "I've Got a Secret" hereafter will be relegated to a late Monday night time period.

Other departures Monday night included "Hazel" after all those seasons, and a couple of late comers, "The Legend of Jesse James" and "A Man Called Shenandoah," two of last seasons' entries that failed to swim to the farther shore.

Tonight, ABC starts pumping its annual quota of new blood into the network arteries. After another two weeks 34 new series will be installed in the evening niches of the three networks.

During the coming season, it is predictable that around 30 shows will be considered failures, all victims of low Nielsen ratings and the whole process will be repeated next September.

Viewers who hope to sample all the new offerings will be kept pretty busy for the next three weeks. After ABC's big premiere week come seven hectic days when both NBC and CBS will launch their new shows, occasionally in conflict with each other.

The new season kicks off at 8:30 p.m. EDT — tonight on ABC with "The Rounders," a half-hour contemporary Western about a couple of roistering cowboys and their wily employer. It will be followed by "The Fruits of Southampton," Phyllis Diller's series about an unexpectedly impoverished high society family. This will be followed by "Love on a Rooftop," a situation comedy about a young married couple.

Leather Strap Used On Convicts

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Tear gas, gun shots and the use of the controversial leather strap for punishment have apparently ended a three-day sit-down strike by convicts at this Arkansas prison farm.

An aide to Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Monday night that "everything was quiet" at the prison and that all but one of the 144 strikers had returned to the farm fields.

Clarence Thornbrough, executive assistant to the governor, said state police had used tear gas and fired shots into the air earlier in the day to break up a melee that pitted trustees against striking convicts.

He said the men went back to the fields after 10 were punished with the whip-like leather strap. He said the other man was also punished with the strap, put on a diet of bread and water and placed in isolation.

Thornbrough said his reports came from prison Supt. O.E. Bishop, who could not be reached by newsmen.

The aide said the melee started Monday morning when trustees were sent in to urge the convicts to return to work.

He said state police then lobbed tear-gas shells into the group and fired shots into the air, ending the fighting.

Injuries were limited to a few skinned knuckles, he said.

The strike began Thursday when Faubus came here to discuss with Bishop the firing of a hired personnel at the nearby Tucker prison farm.

They were fired after a state police investigator reported finding extortion and beatings of convicts.

The governor said the strike began because convicts were under the mistaken impression that the strap had been banned. Faubus told a news conference last Wednesday that use of the strap would be banned when a special isolation ward was constructed. Later he said that such a move was only under consideration.

Legion Barbecue Proceeds to Aid Post Activities

It was reported today by Commander Robert Delaney that reservations and ticket sales for the annual steak barbecue of Kingston Post 150, American Legion, indicate a large turnout for the event scheduled Sunday, Sept. 11.

Commander Delaney said it is encouraging to officers of the Legion Post and members of the barbecue committee to see the fine support of the event which is one of the fund raising programs for the support of various activities undertaken by the Legion.

The barbecue will be held on the grounds next to the Legion home, 18 West O'Reilly Street, under the supervision of Charles King, Gerard Geuss, William Hanley, John Kuehn, Jack Van Dine, Joseph Mercier and James Costello.

Kingston Post recently completed its junior baseball program for the season which saw its youthful team win the runner-up position for the state championship at Cooperstown. Frank Riedell is athletic officer of the Post and the coach-manager positions for the team were held by Jules Albertini and Tommy Mains.

The barbecue will be served from 2 to 5 p.m. and the proceeds will be used toward other programs of the Legion besides the athletic activity for youth, including the child welfare program and others of a charitable and civic nature.

Commander Delaney, who urges full Legion participation and support of the barbecue, said that reservations may be made at the post home. He said there is a special price for children, which is published in this issue of The Freeman, along with the charge for adults.

U. S. Accepts Challenge

Red Chinese Propose
Endless War Around World

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Red Chinese are proposing endless wars with the United States around the world in coming years to "nibble" it to death.

The United States, taking the Chinese as earnest, accepts the challenge although it may be only bombast since the Chinese are still in the process of trying to develop nuclear weapons.

President Johnson and his top aides have promised to help any country against outside aggression. The Chinese call for endless wars — so-called "wars of liberation" — is aimed at trying to sap this country's strength until it crumbles.

The two views, pulled together from a number of statements spread over a year, gives the picture.

Last Sept. 9 Marshal Lin Biao, Chinese defense minister and heir-apparent to Mao Tze-tung, urged revolutionary wars by all the "oppressed nations" in Asia, Africa, Latin America.

He called for "revolutionary bases" in rural areas to "encircle the cities." He explained that by cities he meant North America and Western Europe and by rural areas Asia, Africa, Latin America.

His strategy was simple, as he explained it: Constant outbreaks would weaken the United States; when it became hard-pressed in one place, it would have to loosen its grip somewhere else. But he seemed to be talking of the future.

The Red Chinese stepped up the pace Aug. 30 when their Communist party paper, the People's Daily, called for anti-American uprisings around the world while U.S. troops are involved in Viet Nam.

Lack Influence
The one thing wrong with this call to other countries to start wars: the Red Chinese don't have enough influence right now to get such wars started very widely. They have suffered repeated disasters in their foreign relations.

On that same day, but by coincidence since he hadn't seen what the People's Daily said, Johnson denounced "wars of liberation" although indicating he did not take the Chinese lightly.

He said they had described the war in Viet Nam in unmistakable terms: "It is meant to be the opening salvo in a series of bombardments. . . and if this succeeds in Viet Nam, it will be tried elsewhere."

But then, meeting the challenge, he added: "If our might is needed to help other people defend themselves against aggression supported from without, it will be there."

He said this five days after Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara gave a Senate committee assurances U.S. military strength would not suffer because of worldwide American defense commitments.

U. S. Is Prepared
McNamara said this country is better prepared to fulfill those commitments than at any time in recent years. The United States has defense pacts with more than 40 nations.

But this country has poured an enormous amount of its strength, in men and resources, into Viet Nam. Isn't there danger of being overextended? What would it do if two, or three or more Viet Nams broke out elsewhere?

Rusk said this country's security interests extend not only to countries with which it has defense pacts but to other areas where aggressors could upset the peace in a significant way.

He said: "No would-be aggressor should suppose that the absence of a defense treaty, congressional declaration, or U.S. military presence grants immunity to aggression."

He said lack of a formal commitment to defend a particular country does not mean the United States would not help it in case of attack.

Seldom Time
For Coffee Break
In Viet Nam War

By HENRI HUET

PHUOC LE, South Viet Nam (AP) — They have a sort of coffee break in the Vietnamese war, except there is seldom time for coffee.

The breaks came infrequently recently for U.S. paratroopers searching for the enemy in the steamy jungles of Phuoc Tuy Province east of Saigon.

When the company commander passed the word down to the platoons for a five-minute break, Pfc. Larry Thompson of Los Angeles sat down and drank thirstily from his water bottle. Soldiers have little time to boil coffee.

Sgt. Adolph J. Brecher of Saginaw, Mich., downed the 40-pound pack he'd been carrying all morning and lit a cigarette. Squatting on the damp jungle floor, Spec. 4 Denis P. Elwell of Secaucus, N.J., used the few minutes of respite to peer down the barrel of his rifle to see how much dust and moisture had accumulated. He swabbed it out.

The old pro of the outfit, Sgt. Maj. Robert O. Cruz of Clarkville, Tenn., stood against a tree, the sweat streaming down his clean shaven face. He had shaved every morning for 12 days as the soldiers carved their way through Phuoc Tuy.

Few of the men talked. Sgt. Homer O. Poorman of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, a drop of sweat on his nose, looked into the distance. Was he thinking of his wife and kids back home, the dangers that lay ahead for his squad, the men who had been killed in the past weeks?

Pfc. Eugene Cabbagastalk of Pittsburgh, Pa., his hand brushing his brow, smiled across at a buddy prostrate on the ground. Weary, on the verge of heat prostration, legs and arms cut with twigs and brambles, his buddy had kept plugging on, forcing himself to keep going on the endless patrol.

The company commander whispered the order to get moving again. There would be more breaks later on, but between this one and the next there might be the enemy and war.

Fuel Line Repaired

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A fuel line which burst last month near the launching pad of the Saturn 5 moon rockets has been repaired and the mishap will not materially delay the Saturn 5 schedule, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

A spokesman said fueling tests are expected to resume later this month. The fuel line, to transfer liquid oxygen from a tank to the 365-foot Saturn 5, broke Aug. 19. About 800,000 gallons of the valuable fuel were lost.

DeGaulle Reaches
New Hebrides, to Tahiti Wednesday

PORT VILA, New Hebrides (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle arrived in the New Hebrides today for a one-day official visit.

De Gaulle, on a round-the-world tour, goes Wednesday to Tahiti for two days, and then to the Mururoa Atoll to witness the test explosion of a French atomic bomb Saturday morning.

A French air force DC4 brought the president from New Caledonia to Port Vila, capital of the 80 islands of the New Hebrides which France and Britain administer jointly. The DC4 is the largest plane that can land on Port Vila's grass airstrip.

De Gaulle was greeted by the resident French commissioner, Jacques Mouradiou; the British high commissioner for the Pacific, Sir Robert Foster; a score of other officials and several hundred dark-skinned Melanesians.

De Gaulle will view the explosion Saturday from the cruiser De Grasse 25 miles away from the balloon.

Mayor Grounded

COLVILLE, Wash. (AP) — The mayor's airplane was cracked up over the Labor Day weekend — and it never got off the ground.

Saturday night a car left the road bordering the airport, went through a fence and plowed into Mayor Eugene Scamahorn's plane. Damage: about $5,000.

The following night, somebody slipped the plane from its mooring, pushed it 200 feet to the side of the runway and over a 30-foot embankment, police said.

Remove Live Shell

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The bric-a-brac had been gathering dust in Mamie Wood's house for 13 years.

A former tenant had left it behind.

It was on the couch when a telephone repair man arrived because Mrs. Wood was having her home remodeled.

He gulped and called city police who gingerly removed the live 75 millimeter shell to an impounding lot. Later two bomb experts from Edgewood Arsenal claimed the one and a half-foot projectile.

Sighed Mrs. Wood: "I just assumed it was a souvenir."

Couple Found Dead

MANLIUS N.Y. (AP) — A couple tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. George M. DiCostanzo were found dead in their home Monday night in what State Police described as a double homicide.

State Police reportedly forced their way into the DiCostanzo home in North Manlius, east of Syracuse, when a daughter told police she had not seen her family for two days.

Troopers declined to release more details.

The DiCostanzo address is 7143 Ferstler Rd.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The other day I visited with Mr. and Mrs. Grant (Loretta) Johnston in Sleighsburg. Port Ewen is called by Warren Johnston, our local radio commentator, The Town With A View. Mrs. Johnston's home is overlooking a magnificent view of the Hudson right where the lighthouse is. She has a patio, high above the river, surrounded with colorful flowers, and railing and easy chairs like on a boat. They have a large room, going nearly the full length of the house, with two sides all windows, one side facing the Hudson. There is a long table so one can sit in various places, and a large pair of binoculars, as Mr. Johnston has a vast knowledge of boats, especially along the Rondout Creek and river.

For years he made awnings, and before that I understand the Johnston Bros. were makers of awnings at Ferry Street in Rondout going back to the early days. The house goes up several stories, and with a view from each window. Those who do not know what a Hudson River view can mean, have to live with it. It changes constantly. There is always something coming or going up or down the river, including trains on the other side. This goes on night and day, and you are forever saying "Look!"

I lived with these views in my childhood in Port Ewen. Old timers used to set their pocket watches with the trains or boats, and also knew when they were late. My grandfather used to take out his pocket watch and look at it when certain trains were passing on the New York Central on other side of the Hudson. The Mary Powell also gave folks the right time. Captain

Anderson was never late. Large oil tankers can be seen now, and names on them can be read.

Everyone knows the River Road in Port Ewen, there you are right up to the river. What a magnificent place for a park, perhaps some day one will be built around there, for there seems to be lots of vacant or unused land. With Kingston being destroyed and folks moving out in bunches, many to Port Ewen, they should take advantage of the Hudson River view.

Going to Wilbur one finds an interesting view of the Rondout Creek. Somehow the bushes are never cut when on the Kingston side, but once one is out of the city someone cuts the brush so the Rondout Creek, and all the lovely boats can be seen.

I wonder how many noticed that Aug. 29 and 30, we had a large orange moon. The 30th was supposed to have been a full moon. I know few people look at the sky, but it is there, even over Rondout, the forgotten spot of the universe. The big orange moon shone above us in Rondout, just as it does even over Hyde Park and the Vanderbilt Mansion, and reflects in the Hudson River, to be seen by folks on both sides of the river.

Another spot to see the Hudson, is Hasbrouck Park. When the river boats or tugs go up and down the Hudson, they have their signals and language, and blow their steam whistle, so that those on shore and other boats know what they are saying. They also can play their lights on shore. They have lots of fun on the Hudson River.

I hope to visit the Johnstons again, so I can spend a little time and watch the river, from their vantage point. We have such an interesting section and yet, private people and even Federal and local governments, build housing projects by railroad tracks and cemeteries.

Worth Knowing

We read about the huge success of a small come-on ad placed in a Paris newspaper by a bookseller. His ad read,

"What every young girl should know before she marries. Profusely illustrated, specific instructions, sent in plain wrapper." Everyone who mailed in their $5 for this intriguing book received a fine cookbook. A good example of the fact that words do not always mean what they seem to say, eh? But we mean what we say when we promise you really too value and wonderful service.

Today's Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Amid the anxiety that occasionally envelops those who forecast the American economy is the reassuring knowledge that the optimists generally have been right and the pessimists often absurdly wrong.

Optimism is, in fact, a fairly safe position from which to view the continued growth of our material wealth.

Expect 65 Million Cars

We now own 75 million automobiles, enough so that nobody must ride in the rear seat. In 1952 the most famous projection of the day said Americans would own 65 million — by 1975.

The same study estimated 60 million to 75 million telephones would be used in 1975 and commented, "It is difficult to see how the projected economy would be willing to pay for more." But there are now more than 95.7 million telephones in our homes and offices.

See Drop in Jobless

Our total production was forecast to double between 1950 and 1975 but now, ahead of schedule, the gross national product is coming close to that figure.

Unemployment was forecast to shrink to 3 per cent of available workers by 1975. To the surprise of many it is now down to 3.9 per cent and perhaps headed toward the 1975 projection.

The report, called Resources for Freedom, is considered a masterful study of America's productive ability. Its primary purpose was not to forecast but to establish estimates of the nation's resources and abilities. But in doing this it made "educated projections."

At the time—1952—some scholars and economists scolded the authors as being stargazers. Instead, the authors have been vindicated in many respects and have been found, almost incredibly, overly conservative in other areas. The reason was simple.

"We just weren't optimistic enough," said William S. Paley, who took a leave of absence from his top job at Columbia Broadcasting to be chairman of the government project.

"A lot of people thought we had gone overboard," he said. "In almost every case they thought we had done so."

The statue atop the U.S. Capitol dome is Freedom.

Dear Abby . . .

They'll Always Be Curious

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have always thought your advice to be very sound until I read the answer you gave "JUST CURIOUS" who was adopted in her infancy, had grown up and married, and had finally tracked down her real mother. She asked you if she should go to see her real mother, and you advised her not to!

Abby, how could you? I gave my baby up for adoption 29 years ago, not because I didn't want her, but because I had no husband, and could not afford to keep her. And everyday I pray that my doorbell will ring and she will be standing there.

DEAR ABBY: I hope that woman who is all fired up about meeting her real mother has better luck than I had.

I, too, was adopted, and after many years of searching, I finally located my real mother, so I wrote her a letter telling her that I wanted to meet her. I also asked her to please tell me where she got the name that appeared on my birth certificate. She replied with a postcard, written in pencil: "Don't bother me. I don't know nothing."

NO LONGER CURIOUS

DEAR ABBY: The question of whether an adopted person should, out of curiosity, try to establish contact with his natural parents is one of considerable interest to me, because I did that just four years ago. And I would like to go on record as saying that it was the gravest mistake of my life.

I will not dwell on the unfortunate and ugly repercussions that followed, but your original advice to abandon the idea was indeed wise. I shall always regret having poked around in my past. Sign this

'Penta' Paintable

It's no problem to apply a paint or stain to wood treated with preservatives of the pentachlorophenol type.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter from the woman, adopted in infancy, concerning her "real" mother: I feel that I must protest the use of the word "real" in this instance.

Just what is a "real" mother, Abby? Is she the one who conceives the child, carries it and gives birth to it? Or is she the one who nurses the child thru his first shots, teeth, and first steps? Isn't motherhood boiling bottles and folding diapers, and being available 24 hours a day to kiss away the hurt, and to listen to the stories of his small victories, defeats, disappointments and aspirations? And raising him to adulthood?

Of course, the "natural" mother shows great love for her child by giving him up to be raised in a home with a mother and father who can provide him with a good life. But out of respect for adoptive parents, and primarily to the adopted child to whom the adoptive parents are the only "reality" — let us use the proper terms. Either "natural" mother, or possibly, "biological" mother. Sincerely,
A "REAL" MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I wish that woman who found out how to get in touch with her real mother after all those years, would tell me how she did it.

We have adopted children, and the attorney who handled the adoptions told us that there was NO way for the children to locate their real parents.

FDR Jr. Meets Liberal Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., mentioned as a possible Liberal party gubernatorial candidate, meets today with the party's screening committee.

The committee will interview Roosevelt prior to selection of a Liberal party candidate in the November general election.

Roosevelt, who had sought the Democratic nomination, has been urged by Democratic leaders not to accept the Liberal nomination if it is offered to him.

He withdrew as a Democratic contender when it appeared that City Council President Frank O'Connor had enough votes to win the nomination at the convention in Buffalo this week.

The Liberal party, which possibly could muster as many as 300,000 votes, decided to consider running its own candidate for governor after O'Connor's pre-convention strength became evident. They consider O'Connor too conservative on some issues.

The Liberal party convention will be held here on Thursday.

George D. Matthews, a former deputy fire chief of the Kingston Fire Department, is listed in poor condition in Benedictine Hospital after being stricken with a heart seizure Monday at 9:30 a. m.

According to a spokesman from Doctor's Ambulance, Matthews collapsed on the lawn of his home at 37 Wilson Avenue. He was administered oxygen and taken to the hospital.

Matthews retired Dec. 31, 1963 after more than 36 years of service as a paid fireman. He recently celebrated his 50th year as a member of Union Hose Company.

Back New Taxes Promise to Hold Rocky Blooper

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a promise he couldn't keep — one to hold back new taxes in 1967 — was "the big blooper I made in politics."

"I had to swallow my words," he said on a Labor Day campaign tour of city beaches, "and I felt very badly about it."

Rockefeller's admission came in answer to a heckler's question as the governor pushed coatless and tieless through crowds taking in a last bit of summer sun.

He had believed wrongly, he said, that the state economy would produce enough new revenue to permit implementation of his program without a tax hike.

Rockefeller, seeking his third consecutive term in office, explained he was surprised by a move by local school districts across the state simultaneously asking for financial assistance to start new programs.

Questioned later on whether he foresaw further tax increases, Rockefeller replied: "I made a prediction once there would be no new taxes and I'm not going to make one again. It all depends on what the people demand in the way of services."

On his tour of Far Rockaway beach in Queens with Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz and Queens

Dist. Atty. Nat. Hentel, Rockefeller astonished his aides by attending on the spur of the moment a "brith", or Jewish circumcision party.

Rockefeller, wearing a blue yarmulke talked with guests in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Modlin of Far Rockaway, sampled cake and a soft drink and congratulated the couple on the birth of their son a week ago.

At a beach club in the Bronx, the governor stressed the state's aid to education during his administration, then, stripping to blue swimming trunks, demonstrated a crisp backstroke.

"He looks better than some of the lifeguards," a teenager giggled.

Coordinated Approach Used in Bargaining

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Delegates at the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (IUE) convention here have been told the coordinated approach to collective bargaining is the coming thing.

"By coordinated approach," a union spokesman said, "we mean locals with members employed by the same company get together, try to establish common goals and exchange expert advice and experience. We don't mean they all must have exactly the same contract."

IUE President Paul Jennings said the coordinated approach was being used in bargaining with General Electric and Westinghouse.

"They just happen to be the first agreements up," said Jennings, "but what we are doing there is the program of the entire nation. We seek no strike. Strikes are more apt to occur when the union is weak and divided. When the union is united and strong, the corporation usually gets the message and a strike is unnecessary. I believe GE and Westinghouse will get the message this year."

Barmaid, Three Patrons Shot in Tavern Gunbattle

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A 24-year-old man stands charged with second-degree assault in the shooting of his barmaid girlfriend and three patrons at a tavern in this Buffalo suburb in what police say apparently was the outgrowth of a "lover's quarrel."

The man, John M. Brown of Buffalo, was shot three times by Town of Tonawanda police during a gunbattle in the tavern's parking lot Saturday night. The charges were placed against him Sunday.

Brown was reported in fair condition today at Meyer Memorial Hospital in Buffalo with wounds to the abdomen and right leg.

The barmaid, Mrs. Virginia Hill, 31, of Buffalo, was listed in satisfactory condition at Kenmore Mercy Hospital. She was shot in the abdomen and right shoulder when, police said, Brown fired an Army carbine at her as she ran from the back of the tavern to the parking lot.

A married couple, Harold Heady, 56, of Cheektowaga, and his 55-year-old wife, Ann, were reported in satisfactory condition at the Kenmore hospital. Both suffered back wounds as they stood at the bar.

A third injured patron, Clarence Wolfgang, 46, of Wheatfield, was discharged from the hospital Sunday after treatment for a back wound.

Investigators said Brown fired 19 shots in the tavern and parking lot and that the patrons were hit as Brown fired at Mrs. Hill as she ran out the back door.

Brown was shot by two patrolmen who were called to the scene. Police said he fired several shots at the officers, but missed.

The tavern, the Glo-Mar Bar, is just north of the Buffalo city line.

Mrs. Hill lives at 569 Forest Ave. The Headys' address is 191 Tudor Road, and Wolfgang's is 2209 River Road.

Lists Stolen Articles

A car battery and about 15 gallons of gasoline were reported stolen to city police by Gene Lowe, 105 Hunter St. Lowe said the robbery occurred about midnight Saturday. He placed a value of $27 on the battery which was taken from a shed at the Hunter Street address. He also said that the gasoline was drained from the tanks of two cars parked on the property. Police are investigating.

Honeymoon Delayed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It may be 15 years before Carl Houston Roberts and his bride can go on their honeymoon. Their marriage began and ended with the click of handcuffs.

They were married in a courtroom one floor under the cells of the metropolitan Nashville jail. Roberts has been sentenced to 15 years for armed robbery. His bride, Anna, 28, is under a three-to-five year sentence for receiving and concealing stolen property. They have appeals pending with the State Supreme Court.

First Manned Rocket Flight

The quarter century between the picture at left and the one at right spans the history of manned rocket flight to date. Not the Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin but a U.S. Army Air Corps pilot is on record as the first man to take to the air with rocket assistance. It was in August, 1941, that Capt. Homer A. Boushey took off in a plane fitted with Jet Assist Take Off units to determine if military aircraft could use rockets to get into the air faster from short runways. It was a first step leading to advanced JATO units and helping to pave the way for today's rocket flights that are rapidly putting the moon and planets within man's reach.

Capt. Homer Boushey takes off on rocket power from March Field, Calif. His solid rocket units put out 28 pounds of thrust for 12 seconds. Take-off speed was about 50 m.p.h. The successful JATO tests took place Aug. 6-23, 1941.

Fred S. Miller, rocket engine pioneer with Aerojet-General Corp., holds a rocket unit used in the 1941 tests. He's framed by the nozzles of a first-stage engine for today's huge Titan rockets.

A two-man Gemini capsule atop a Titan booster putting out 430,000 pounds of thrust lifts off from a Cape Kennedy launch pad, a fiery spectacle rapidly becoming almost commonplace.

Upstater Praised For Saigon Act Averting Crash

SAIGON (AP) — Airman I.C. Glen M. Kemac, 23, of the west-central New York State community of Seneca Falls, received praise today as a member of the crew of an Air Force transport that put out an electrical fire in the cockpit and averted a crash.

The Air Force announced Monday that the crew extinguished the fire aboard the craft, which was carrying 66 passengers, last Saturday as the huge C130 flew through thunderstorms and a combat air strike.

Kemac's assignment, as loadmaster, was to remain with the passengers during the emergency. The passengers learned of the fire after they left the plane at the airport.

The craft was 30 miles from Saigon when the fire erupted, filling the cockpit with smoke, forcing the plane to return to the airport.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

Seventy foreign countries, many of which are receiving aid from the United States Government, today have more than $12,955,000,000 of gold earmarked for their accounts in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Banks of this country.

Now gold in vaults earns nothing. And yet, most of these countries desperately need more income. Suppose you, the reader, were the Secretary of the Treasury of one of these 70 nations and you were the manager of your proportionate share ($185,000,000) of this gold.

Would you reason thus: this 185 million is earning nothing. Yet, on every hand we have great needs. With bonds of the U. S. Government selling to yield 5 1/2 per cent, why not sell this gold for dollars and with this money buy bonds and add over $10,000,000 a year to our income?

Think of it: over 12 billions of gold earning nothing, owned by many needy lands, could be invested in the best bonds in the world (U.S. Treasuries) and this enormous amount of money would earn over $660,000,000 a year and this income would go to many impoverished nations!

What is the explanation? Well, for centuries, gold has been the greatest store and measure of value in the world. That was true in 966, 1066 and right down to 1966. And it will continue to be.

Responsible officials in 70 foreign countries are saying: "We want to keep our gold intact. We will leave it in the vaults of the greatest banks in the world in a democracy where, despite many serious problems, our precious metal will be available upon demand, and where it will be safeguarded."

Now, ironically, American investors can get no "old. Legislation was passed by the Congress of the United States more than 30 years ago which nationalized gold.

But investors can do the next best thing: purchase the dividend-paying common stocks of the leading gold mining corporations of the Western World. They are actively bought and sold in the world's leading stock exchange.

Will gold be increased in price from the present $35 an ounce? That is problematical. But gold has been at its present price for more than 30 years. In the meantime, prices everywhere have advanced.

When America nationalized gold in 1933, the price was boosted gradually from $20.67 an ounce to $35. The costs of producing gold have steadily increased and taxes have gone up. In 1966, there is a far greater logic in increasing the price of gold than there was in 1933.

Seventy nations holding nearly 13 billions of gold in vaults in America must be doing something right. In all events, the financial leaders all over the world here as a prized store of value, cherish their gold possessions. If in the immediate future anything is done with this gold, I shall treat of the matter in this column.

Discuss gold with your banker or broker.

Boy Is Sixth Victim of Car Crash on Aug. 9

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Patrick Nucci, 14, of Syracuse, became Sunday the sixth person to die as the result of a two-car crash Aug. 9.

Nucci's mother and four Pennsylvania residents were killed in the collision on Route 12, about 15 miles north of the city.

The youth had remained unconscious in Fairview Hospital here since the crash, which occurred, State Police said, when the Pennsylvania automobile went out of control, jumped the center mall and struck the Nucci vehicle.

Killed in the crash:

Doyle Derr, 26; his wife, Katherine, 29, their daughter, Rhonda, 8, and son Paul 3 of Berwick Pa., in one car, and Mrs. Fiorina Nucci in the other.

Nucci's father was injured but was later discharged from the hospital.

Rocky Names 4, On 'Tight Money'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced Monday appointment of a four-member Cabinet Committee on Credit to look into the present "tight money" situation in New York State.

He designated Banking Superintendent Frank Wille as chairman of the group.

Other members are Commerce Commissioner Keith S. McHugh, Insurance Superintendent Henry Root Stern Jr. and Housing Commissioner James W. Gaynor.

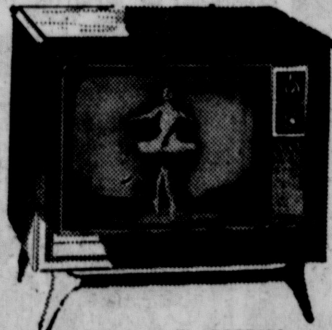

Rockefeller said in a statement that he was concerned by the "growing scarcity of credit, even at high interest rates."

"The steady decline in the availability of credit to individuals and small business must be arrested if the total economy of the state is to remain strong," he declared.

UCCC to Offer Evening Classes

A wide range of evening courses are being offered this fall by Ulster County Community College to provide an educational opportunity for community residents to improve themselves.

Classes will start Sept. 19 at 7 p. m. in the college's temporary campus at 214 West Chestnut Street, Kingston.

Registration for returning part-time students will be Sept. 12 from 6 to 9 p. m. at the college, and registration for new part-time students will be Sept. 13 from 6 to 9 p. m.

The evening program fills a vital need in the community. It plays an important role in providing a chance for employees of local industries to gain more education and win advancement to better jobs. It also gives local residents an opportunity to broaden personal horizons.

Through the evening program, the college extends educational opportunities to area residents by removing the barriers of high costs and geographic distance which frequently have made higher education inaccessible to many qualified and deserving students.

The college offers a part-time evening program for individuals wanting higher education but unable to attend college as full-time students. Sufficiently broad in scope, the part-time program meets the needs of students who vary widely in age and educational purpose.

This September, 42 evening courses are going to be offered to part-time students. This is 14 more than the 28 courses offered in the fall of 1963, when the college first opened, and is a clear indication of the evening program's growth.

LWV to Report On Library item

Several thought-provoking questions will be posed to those attending the September meeting of the League of Women Voters of Saugerties.

Mrs. Robert Emery, library study item chairman, announced today that, based on its year-and-one-half study entitled "A Study and Evaluation of Library Facilities in the Village and Town of Saugerties," the League hopes to answer these questions: (1) Are the library facilities adequate for Saugerties? The answer to this should be based on considerations such as number of personnel, extent and types of book selections (i. e., reference, children's literature, fiction, etc.), and space (i. e., floor space, shelf space, storage facilities, meeting space). (2) Is the financial backing of the Saugerties Public Library adequate? (3) What are the areas where the League can be of help to the library.

The League extends a cordial invitation to attend its September meeting to all local residents who are interested in the future of the Saugerties Public Library. The meeting will be held Wednesday Sept. 14, at 8 p. m., at the Saugerties Methodist Church. Refreshments will be served.

MRS. CHARLES E. LAWRENCE (Sardou photo)

Donna Nerone Exchanged Marriage Vows With Charles E. Lawrence, Saturday, Sept. 3

On Saturday, Sept. 3, 1966 marriage vows were exchanged by Donna Virginia Nerone and Charles Edward Lawrence, both Kingston residents. The double ring wedding ceremony took place in the Ponckhockie Congregational Church at 11 a. m. with the Rev. Olney E. Cook officiating. Mrs. Francisca Smith was soloist and Mrs. William E. Williams, organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nerone of 92 Abruyn Street, this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lawrence of RD 3, Kingston.

White and orchid gladioli decorated the church.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of silk organza over silk taffeta in floor length. It was designed with a fitted bodice, bateau neckline and kabuki sleeves. Reembroidered Alencon lace appliques with pearl beading accented the sleeves, the raised waistline and the A-line skirt. Her detachable wattleau semi-court train fell from two bows at the shoulders. Her triple tiered ballerina length veil of French silk illusion was caught to a crown of lace accented with iridescents and tiny orange blossoms. She carried a white mother of pearl Bible with white cymidium orchids and stephanotis with streamers and pearl hearts.

Mrs. Robert L. Styles of 87 Abruyn Street, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore an empire styled ensemble of orchid taffeta in floor length styled with sleeveless fitted bodice and bateau neckline with white lace over orchid taffeta and a sheath skirt of orchid taffeta. The half-coat featured elbow length sleeves of lace taffeta. Her headpiece consisted of a double crown outlined with white pearl beads and a matching circlet veil. She carried white pompons and orchid camellias with orchid streamers.

Darlene Mick of Vermont, cousin of the bride Maryann Nerone of Lake Katrine, cousin of the bride, Sharon Ann Nerone of East Kingston, cousin of the bride, and Jane Boice of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., cousin of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids along with junior bridesmaids Viki Nerone and Patricia Sangelina, cousins of the bride, from Kingston. All wore gowns identical to that of the honor attendant's with similar single crowns and circlet veils. They carried bouquets similar in arrangement to that carried by the honor attendant.

Robin Lynn Styles and Jill Marie Nerone, the bride's nieces, served as flower girls in white cotton lace over taffeta gowns with orchid bows. They carried white baskets of lily of the valley and orchids.

James A. Lawrence, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Robert L. Styles of Kingston, brother-in-law of the bride, James D. Nerone of Kingston, brother of the bride, Joseph F. ### Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
NO TRUTH IN OLD SAW ABOUT 'KEEPING HIM WAITING'

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you think of girls who keep boys waiting every time they have a date? My girl never puts in an appearance in less than 15 or 20 minutes after I call for her. I asked her why, and she said she always heard that girls were expected to keep boys waiting so they don't seem over eager.—Bill S.

Dear Bill: Your girl friend's answer is one of the silliest misconceptions I know of. I agree she might look over eager if she were sitting out on the front steps waiting for you, but to be ready at the hour she expects you is just plain good manners.

Commuter Shuns Conversation

Dear Mrs. Post: I commute to the city by train and run into the following problem. I enjoy the opportunity to read a book or a newspaper, but it often happens that an acquaintance takes the seat next to me and wants to talk. I certainly don't wish to be rude, but I would rather spend the hour quietly. I would like to know if it would be a display of bad manners, after a moment or two of conversation, to say, "Would you mind if I read my newspaper?"—Daily Commuter.

Dear Commuter: As long as you devote a moment or two of conversation to your neighbor, you are perfectly free to do as you suggest. If he has no reading material with him, it would be considerate to offer him a section of your newspaper.

One Present Serves the Purpose

Dear Mrs. Post: Friends of mine recently adopted a baby and gave a party to celebrate the event. Although it was not a shower or christening party, all the guests brought gifts. Now the christening is to be held shortly and we were wondering if we need to take gifts again?—Alice.

Dear Alice: No, you certainly don't need to take another gift. The ones given at the first party would be considered christening presents.

Beauty Pageant Is Experiencing Troubles; Image Wobbles While Queens Are Replaced

By PHILIP WECHSLER
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Like a dowager matron trying to hide her wrinkles, the Miss America Pageant displays only its best image.

Ordinarily everybody is part of "one big happy family" and everything runs smoothly without a hitch.

But in this year's pageant the image has been creased.

For the first time in the history of the nation's oldest beauty contest, three state queens were dethroned and replaced by the first runners-up.

Miss Michigan was disqualified for a rules infraction; Miss Connecticut was challenged and unseated, and Miss California voluntarily relinquished her title.

Gayle Ann Chancey of Dearborn originally was named Miss Michigan. But last week she was reported missing during a 200-mile motor trip.

Jack Bushong, Michigan pageant director, said Gayle had violated two major rules—driving alone in a pageant car and failing to inform her parents of her whereabouts.

He named shapely 19-year-old, honey blond Nancy Ackert of Battle Creek the new state queen.

"I never experienced so many emotions when I was told Gayle was disqualified," Nancy said Monday night. "I feel heartbroken and sad for her."

"I also feel petrified for myself, but I am thrilled at being in Atlantic City. It still hasn't hit me."

Nancy, who intends to become a speech teacher was competing in another beauty contest in Hoopeson, Ill., when she was informed of the decision.

The Miss Connecticut pageant was first won by Karen Maure, who was challenged by Carole Ann Gish of Waterbury. Carole contended that Karen neither lived in the city she represented nor attended school there (Bridgeport), and had stayed at a judge's home prior to the contest.

The judge, Miss Tennessee in 1948, conceded that Karen stayed with her but did not receive any coaching.

A run-off was held in New York City between the two girls and Carole was awarded the title.

"I am very happy to be here," Carole said as she registered for the Miss America Pageant. She declined further comment, however.

Carole, 21, a hazel-eyed brunette who aspires to be a psychiatric social worker, said she was instructed by pageant officials not to discuss the dispute.

Charlene Dallas of Danville was heading for a pageant party hours after she lost the Miss California contest when she was told the winner had vacated the title.

"Someone pointed a finger at me and said what had happened," she recalled. "He could have knocked me over with that finger, then."

The shortlived queen, Donna Danzer, told stunned officials that the title "would rest heavy on my head." She said she wanted to continue her education and be near her boyfriend.

Charlene thus inherited a $1,000 scholarship, a new wardrobe and jewelry, a new car for a year, and the chance to become Miss America of 1967.

League of Women Voters Planning Busy Fall Season

Voters Service and public relations chairman of the League of Women Voters of Kingston, New Paltz, Saugerties and Woodstock recently met at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs in Kingston to discuss the format of the Candidates' Night Meeting which the Leagues are co-sponsoring with B'nai B'rith this year.

Candidates of all parties for Federal, State and local offices are being invited to state their views and to answer questions at this meeting to be held in Kingston in October. Exact time and place to be announced.

Plans for publishing the "Voters Guide" were also made. This the League publishes every year as a public service giving the facts and issues of the current election to promote responsible voting.

The months ahead should be stimulating, for in addition to being asked to select candidates for 13 offices, the citizen will be asked to vote on 11 amendments and one proposition. Hence, an early start for a busy season for the four Leagues of Ulster County.

Randall and Van Aken Tie With Plus-5 in Round Robin Golf

Finals Slated Next Saturday At Twaalfskill

Those two ancient rivals of Ulster county fairways — Bill Van Aken of Woodstock and Leon Randall of Wiltwyck — are tied with plus 5 scores at the end of 36 holes of the 54-hole Kingston Area Round Robin golf tournament.

Ricky Barthel, the Twaalfskill representative, is in third place with minus 10 under the Palm Beach round robin scoring system.

With Sunday's action rained out, 36 holes were played Monday, with the final 18 holes scheduled next Saturday at The Twaalfskill Club.

Randall posted even par rounds of 36-36-72 at Wiltwyck and 70 at Woodstock to lead through 30 holes of the competition.

Van Aken carded one of the most bizarre rounds of his career on his home links at Woodstock where he fired 8 birdies, four on each nine, and still settled for 38-32-70, while Randall was going 36-34. At Wiltwyck, Van Aken posted 39-36-75, three over par, but finished with 11 pars in succession.

Barthel shot 40-36-76 at Wiltwyck and 39-35-74 at Woodstock.

Brilliant Recoveries
Randall, who recovered magnificently throughout the day, moved to plus 3 on the 5th hole at Wiltwyck and held to the 31st hole at Woodstock where Van Aken tied him at plus 5 with a 10-foot birdie 2 on the par-3 water hole.

Each picked up a point to go plus 6 with birdie-4's on the par five fifth (32nd). Van Aken blew a 2-footer on the 33rd hole. Barthel birdied the 34th hole to take a point from both Randall and Van Aken, leaving the totals at plus 6 for Randall, plus 3 for Van Aken, while he went to minus 9.

Van Aken squared the match with Randall with a birdie-3 on the 35th hole (No. 9) running down a 7-footer while Randall and Barthel settled for pars.

Three on a Green
On Woodstock's finishing hole — a par-3 water hole — all three players hit the green with their tee shots. Randall, whose long approach putts were uncanny throughout the day, almost holed out his duce. Van Aken, 30 feet away, putted to within six inches.

Randall's outgoing 36 at Wiltwyck in the morning round earned him a plus 4 to Van Aken's minus 1 and Barthel's minus 3. All three ended 36's on the back nine to maintain the status quo as they headed for Woodstock.

Van Aken twice birdied Nos. 1, 5 and 8 at Woodstock and had others on the 4th and 6th hole. In the meantime he missed short

Mets Rehire Wes Westrum

NEW YORK (AP) — Wes Westrum, who is leading the New York Mets to the most successful season in their five-year history, was rehired today as manager of the National League team for 1967.

Terms were not disclosed. Although the Mets have lost their last five games, their record is 59-81. They are in ninth place, 10 games ahead of the Chicago Cubs. The Mets finished 10th in each of their previous four years in the league.

Westrum, 43-year-old resident of Phoenix, Ariz., served as the club's interim manager after Casey Stengel suffered a leg injury in July, 1965. Stengel retired after the season and Westrum was given a one-year contract as manager.

Opens Saturday
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "I'm sure glad we didn't play Baylor last Saturday," says Syracuse football coach Ben Schwartzwalder, whose team opens its season against the Waco, Tex., team this Saturday.

Schwartzwalder commented Monday after watching films of a weekend intra-squad scrimmage.

Hectic NL Race Pirates Split Pair; LA Tops Giants, 4-1

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's theme song started out as Happy Birthday to You, but the Pirates ended up singing the blues.

Bill Mazeroski celebrated his 30th birthday Monday with a grand-slam homer in the third inning of Pittsburgh's 13-5 blitz of Atlanta in the first game of a doubleheader. Maz came back with a bases-empty shot in the sixth inning and he also drove in a run in the first with an infield out.

But in the nightcap, Braves pitcher Tony Cloninger breezed into the ninth inning, with a six-run margin, having allowed the heavy-hitting Pirates just three hits. The first-place Bucs put up a ferocious fight, scoring four runs in the final frame, but Cloninger held on and the Braves won 7-5.

With the split, the Pittsburgh margin dwindled to a game and a half over second-place Los Angeles, which beat San Francisco 4-1. The Giants fell 2½ games off the pace in third place.

Mazeroski's grand slam was his second this season and the third of his career. He has 15 homers this season. But he wasn't the only long-ball nitter in the doubleheader. Joe Torre, Henry Aaron, Ed Mathews and Denis Menke all hit them out for the Braves.

In other National League games, Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from New York, 8-2 and 8-5, the second game in 10 innings. Philadelphia and Chicago split 4-5 and 7-2, and St. Louis and Houston divided a pair 4-1 and 6-0.

The Dodgers snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning with four bases on balls and wrapped it up with a run-scoring single by Willie Davis in the ninth, followed by Tommy Davis' run-scoring double.

Willie Davis and Hal Lanier of the Giants matched solo homers earlier in the game. Bill Host issued three of the ninth-inning walks, one intentionally, but Frank Linzy, who walked lead-

Glove Men Save Birds

By DICK COUCH
Baltimore's power structure may be crumbling, but a couple of glove men have the situation in hand.

Defensive stars Paul Blair and Dave Johnson, who usually perform in the shadow of the Orioles' Frank Robinson-Brooks Robinson-Boog Powell wrecking crew, supplied the big punch Monday in a 5-4, 7-4 doubleheader sweep over the skidding New York Yankees.

Powell is nursing a hand injury. Brooks Robinson is battling a prolonged batting slump and Frank Robinson hasn't hit a homer in six games—but the Orioles are still winging toward their first modern-era pennant.

The Robinsons settled for three singles between them in Monday's twin bill and Powell watched from the bench, but Blair and Johnson enjoyed field days as the American League leaders officially ousted the Yankees from the race.

Centerfielder Blair, a normally light-hitting speedster who plays only against left-handed pitching, numbered a homer among his four hits and knocked in five runs, including the game-winner in the opener.

Second baseman Johnson, making his first appearance since suffering a broken toe and spike wound in an Aug. 20 base-pair collision, stroked five hits, including a homer and two doubles, while driving in three runs.

The sweep stretched Baltimore's lead to 10½ games over the second-place Detroit Tigers, who bowed to Washington 6-4 before beating the Senators 7-4 in the second game of their doubleheader.

It also set the Orioles' magic number for clinching the flag at 14 while mathematically eliminating New York on the earliest date since 1925.

Elsewhere, Boston beat Cleveland 5-1 after dropping its doubleheader opener 3-1; Chicago downed Minnesota 7-4 and Kansas City defeated California 4-1.

Rochester Wins International League Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rochester's remarkable Rockies, never more poised than when the going was stickiest in the final week, are the 1966 champions of International League baseball.

Manager Earl Weaver's Red Wings nailed down a record 13th pennant Monday—the last day of the IL's 83rd season—by winning the game they had to win from their favorite "cousin," Syracuse, 10-7.

It was the Wings' 15th victory in 21 meetings with the last-place Chiefs, and if Rochester hadn't won it, there would have been a three way tie for the championship between the Red Wings, Columbus and Toronto.

Going into the final day of the 147-game season, the Wings had led Columbus and Toronto by one game. Columbus and Toronto both won their final games Monday, the Jets defeating Richmond 7-6 and the Maple Leafs downing Buffalo, 10-7.

The new champions' triumph in one of the most exciting finishes in International League annals was a bit ironic, for Rochester topped the standings relatively few days during the season.

Four times in the last eight days, the lead swapped hands. Rochester took first place Aug. 28, Toronto moved ahead for the only time during the season on Aug. 30, and Columbus—the No. 1 club almost the entire summer—grabbed it back Aug. 31.

Not until last Friday did the Red Wings go in front for keeps. From there to the end on Monday, the schedule gave them a break, for all their games were with Syracuse while Columbus had to square off against Richmond, a season-long jinx for the Jets, and Toronto had to play at rough, tough Buffalo.

Rochester finished with winning records against four clubs —Syracuse, 16-5; Toledo, 14-7; Toronto, 13-8; and Richmond, 13-8. The Wings lost the season's series with Columbus, 10-11; Buffalo, 8-13; and Jacksonville, 10-11.

Y to Initiate Program for 1st, 2nd Grade Boys

This fall the YMCA will initiate a new youth membership program for first and second grade boys, Dave Peterson "Y" Physical Director told The Freeman today. The program will be especially designed for boys of this age level and will be held every Tuesday and Friday from 3:30 to 4:45.

While working part time at the YMCA in Athens, Ga., Peterson did much work with boys in this age group. He also began a 10-week program here at the "Y" in Kingston shortly after his arrival in the city. All boys who participated in the program had a most enjoyable and satisfying experience.

The program on Tuesdays and Fridays will include relay races, dodgeball, kickball, rope climbing, football and a short exercise period. Boys will take showers before leaving for home. On school holidays these boys will be given time in the swimming pool and will receive individual attention and expert instruction.

Peterson will be in charge of the program and will be assisted by two outstanding YMCA youth members, 13-year-old Steve Naccarato and 14-year-old Ronny Esposito. These boys helped with the 10-week program in the spring and are looking forward to lending their valuable assistance once again. Both are members of the Y leader's Corps.

The program will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 20 and will run every Tuesday and Friday throughout the school year. The YMCA, an agency of the Ulster County Community Chest, strive to serve all residents of Ulster County.

Wins Stock Title At Exposition

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Larry Nye of Preble drove his 280-cubic inch sportsman car to victory Monday in the New York State Stock Car Championship at the State Exposition here.

Nye, a welder, flashed past the leaders in the final two miles of the 25-mile race and covered the course in 18 minutes, 59 seconds.

Cliff Kotary, who was looking for his seventh straight victory in the annual event, spun out in the 21st lap when his engine froze.

Other top finishers included: Kelly Walker, Canandaigua, second; Dick May, Watertown, third; Rollie Velts, Auburn, fourth; and Sammy Reakes, Brewerton, fifth.

A crowd of about 65,000 is expected to witness the match in Frankfurt's largest outdoor stadium. It will be the first heavyweight title bout ever held in Germany and the first in which a German has participated since Max Schmeling was flattened by Joe Louis in one round 28 years ago.

Mildenberger, a southpaw, says he will try to match speed with Clay, who recently knocked out Britons Henry Cooper and Brian London. "We shall see what style Clay develops and adjust accordingly. I am prepared for anything," the German said.

Dick Smith, Kitty Fowler Tennis Champions

Zeeh in Default

Due to Injury

Dick Smith and Kitty Fowler won Ulster County singles titles in the Ulster County Tennis Tournament at Forsyth Park over the weekend.

Smith swept past Dick Little, 6-2, 6-1 in the men's singles, while Miss Fowler, repeating in her division, defeated her mother, Mary Fowler, 6-2, 6-2.

Pete Zeeh never got a chance to defend his men's singles. He was forced to default his semi-final match to Little because of a knee injury sustained in a touch football game.

Smith gained the men's finals with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over fourth seeded Dave Roberts. Against Little, the new champion was definitely on his game and his shots were sharp and precise. A closer match had been anticipated.

Proves Too Strong

Kitty Fowler was too strong for Pat Boyd and breezed to a 6-1, 6-4 win in the semi-finals. Both players were former New York State Jaycee champions, Kitty having won the crown in 1964 and Pat in 1966.

The mother-daughter battle between Kitty and Mary Fowler was one of the best ever played in the women's division and closer than the score indicated.

Default in Doubles

The men's doubles team of Zeeh and Marshall Lipton defaulted because of Zeeh's injury and the finals in the division between the first seeded team of Smith and Little and former Kingston High School aces — Frank Kruszenski and Bruce Sumbler — is scheduled today (Tuesday) at 5:30 p. m.

Mixed doubles play delayed by the weekend rain continues. On Labor Day afternoon, Dave Roberts and Kitty Fowler won a close one from Dick Little and Pat Boyd, 6-2, 8-6. Volleys were fast and sharp. The win put them in the finals, awaiting the winners of the lower bracket of the draw.

The summaries:

(Men's Singles) Quarter finals — Little over J. Hevesi, 6-4, 8-6; Smith over P. Johnson, 6-1, 6-3; Roberts over Bill Carr, 6-4, 6-3. Semi-finals — Little over Zeeh, default; Smith over Roberts, 6-2, 6-1. Finals — Smith over Little, 6-2, 6-1.

First round — P. Boyd defeated M. Grover, 6-4, 6-3; N. Alexander d. Ruth Goldin, 6-1, 9-11, 6-4. Semi-finals — K. Fowler d. P. Boyd, 6-1, 6-4; M. Fowler d. N. Alexander, 6-4, 6-3. Finals — K. Fowler d. M. Fowler, 6-2, 6-2.

Elmira Sweeps Eastern by 20

The Eastern League season ended Monday night looking like two leagues with the first-place Elmira Pioneers — 20 games ahead — looking like they were in a league by themselves and the five other teams fighting a hot battle for second.

Elmira, although they split a day-night doubleheader with the Pawtucket Indians, losing the first 5-2 and winning the second 3-0, won the pennant and set a new record at the same time. Their league-leading margin eclipsed the 18½-game lead earned by Scranton in 1946.

Pawtucket, by winning one game, finished in a second-place tie with the Pittsfield Red Sox, which swept a Labor Day doubleheader with the York White Roses, 2-1 and 1-0.

The Williamsport Mets, by splitting a twin bill Monday with the Waterbury Giants, slipped half a game back into fourth place.

Hobart Coach Is Dead at 67

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — Francis L. (Babe) Kraus, coach of lacrosse at Hobart College for 40 years, died Monday night in Geneva General Hospital. He was 67 last Friday.

Kraus, who had been a patient in the hospital for several days, also was a professor of physical education at Hobart.

His lacrosse teams won 207 games, lost 120 and tied 5. Kraus joined the Hobart faculty in 1926, less than two years after his graduation from that school.

During his tenure, he served as graduate manager of athletics, athletic director, and interim head football and basketball coach on several occasions.

He was inducted into the lacrosse Hall of Fame May 15, 1965.

Survivors include his widow, Margaret B.; two sons, F. Joseph of Pittsburgh and Capt. Jon R., stationed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Michigan, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Robert Maney and Mrs. Calvin Carey, both of Rochester.

The funeral will be held Friday morning in St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church, Geneva.

Choice of Umpire Seen as Factor In Billie's Loss

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Rumors spread today that Mrs. Billie Jean King was upset, emotionally disturbed over the choice of the umpire when she suffered a surprising defeat by an overlooked Australian in the U.S. Tennis Championships.

Billie Jean, however, was having none of it. "I felt all right. She simply outplayed me," she said after being upset 6-4, 6-4 by 19-year-old Kerry Melville in the second round Monday. Mrs. King, the Wimbledon champion and co-holder of the top ranking in this country, was top-seeded in the women's bracket.

Rumor had it that she had been disturbed when she discovered that S.R. Bumann of Dallas was to umpire her match. Bumann reportedly led the drive that prompted the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association to give Nancy Richey co-ranking with Mrs. King as America's No. 1 player.

"I didn't know until after Bumann was in the chair that he might be objected to by Mrs. King," said Alexander Clark, in charge of assigning umpires. "If I had known, I wouldn't have assigned him. But once he's in the chair, I can't remove him. That's up to the referee."

All observers agreed, however, that while it may have been upsetting to Mrs. King, the officiating had nothing to do with her elimination. The victory was clearly earned by Miss Melville.

Miss Melville, ranked second among Australia's junior girls and ninth among the country's women players, is not seeded in this tournament.

Tom Rolfe Wins Aqueduct—His Future in Doubt

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
It wasn't at all certain Tom Rolfe was going to go in the $114,300 Aqueduct and it's even less certain when and where — and if — he'll go again.

The 3-year-old champ of 1965 has been syndicated and will be retired to stud at the end of the year.

"I just don't know when or where he'll go again," trainer Frank Whitey Jr. said after Tom Rolfe had scored a neck victory in the $114,300 Aqueduct Handicap at Aqueduct Monday.

"I'll have to talk with Mr. (Raymond) Guest and then we'll decide."

Guest, master of Powhatan Stable and the owner of Tom Rolfe, is U.S. ambassador to Ireland. He was prevented from attending the race by official duties.

There were 64,738 others who had no such worry, however, and watched the son of Ribot charge through the stretch and beat Pluck by a neck.

In all, 406,302 went to the races at 24 tracks Labor Day, wagering $28,794,092, including $5,436,368 at Aqueduct.

Willie Shoemaker gave Tom Rolfe a perfectly judged ride and brought him over the 1 1/4 miles in 1:52 2-5. He paid $6.80 as the mild favorite, carrying a whopping 127 pounds.

Indulto was never a factor, and failed to complete a big double for trainer Max Hirsch, who saddled Buffle, winner of the $277,250 New Hampshire Sweepstakes Classic at Rockingham Park Saturday.

Ginger Fizz won the other super-value race Saturday, the $226,525 Arlington-Washington Lassie Stakes in Chicago.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's Baath Socialist government announced today it had crushed a plot to overthrow it. It said the plot was backed by King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Jordan and Israel.

Recent press reports in Beirut, Lebanon, said Syrian troops stationed on the border with Israel had threatened to march on Damascus but were opposed by units loyal to the government.

Relatives Express Gratitude for Jackie's Cause

The husband and parents of Jacqueline Santosky, the young Tillson woman whose struggle to survive uremic poisoning inspired an unprecedented community effort in Ulster County to aid her, paused in the midst of their bereavement over her untimely death Saturday to thank the people of the Hudson Valley, who had rallied to her cause.

Mrs. Santosky's husband, Richard, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. DeVoll, just short hours before leaving home to attend her funeral, issued a statement that expressed both gratitude for the efforts made in the valiant young woman's behalf and hope for the future of others who might suffer the same type kidney ailment she tried to conquer.

Saddening Sentence
Addressing their statement "To the people of the Hudson Valley," Richard Santosky and John and Agnes DeVoll began with the simple but saddening sentence, "On September 3, 1966, Jacqueline Santosky died."

"The remainder of the statement follows:

"When the story of how we were fighting to save her life was published in The Freeman and broadcast by radio station WKNY, people from all over the Valley began to respond. Their contributions to try to save Jackie's life were magnificent. Jackie tried, too, with everything she had . . . and doctors and nurses at the hospital tried as hard as possible. Everyone tried and, if the money had been available just a little sooner, we are confident she would have lived."

"We do not feel that the fight was in vain and it is our deepest desire that the money raised in her behalf be used as a memorial to our Jackie and to the 7,500 people who fought with us to save her life."

"We would hope that the fund be called the Jacqueline Santosky Emergency Relief Fund and that it be continued in her memory. We would like it to stand constantly available "to save a life."

"Jackie did not die without a fight and, more importantly, the people of this Valley and from many far away places fought with her. No one in this Valley in the future should have to die alone and without a fight—for the money is for these people."

Want Memory to Live
"If only one person dies who could be saved, then Jackie would have died in vain—but we want her memory to live so that people will band together and fight again and again whenever a life is in danger."

As the above statement was being run off newspaper presses and read over microphones, Jacqueline Santosky's family and friends mourned her passing at funeral services in Rosendale this afternoon. Many who could not attend were present in their minds and hearts for they had been among the thousands who helped to raise $25,500 today's figure to purchase a dialysis machine for her use and establish a local kidney clinic in her name. The miracle, to them, had been their own heartfelt response—as rare as it was magnificent. And they preferred to believe that only good had come from tragedy; that had they known of Jackie Santosky several months sooner, her heartbeat would not have been stilled. For although Jackie was responding to dialysis treatment at Prospect Heights Hospital in Brooklyn at the time of her death, near dawn Saturday, her heart, exhausted from the lifelong fight, failed to respond.

Treatment was being given slowly on a machine owned by the hospital and the gleaming new machine which would have awaited Jackie upon her return home—as a gift from the resident of the Hudson Valley—will now never be delivered there. Hopefully, a committee will be formed here to administer the remaining funds. Once the expenses involved in her treatment since transferral from Albany Medical Center to Brooklyn nursing care, have been paid, the very substantial amount left could and should go into a machine which would be based in an Ulster County clinic to answer the needs of those whose very considerable needs have been highlighted by 27-year-old Jackie Santosky, the heroine of one of Ulster's finest hours.

Marvella Opposes Lottery Proposal To Help Schools

Joseph A. Marvella, Liberal Party candidate for the New York State Senate, 38th Senatorial District (Dutchess-Ulster) today released the following statement concerning the proposal for a state lottery:

"After careful study of the problem, I feel I cannot support the proposal for a lottery for educational purposes.

"My main reason is that it makes education a stepchild among governmental undertakings. It is as though we are singling out education and saying to it: 'then highways, mental hospitals, state parks, etc., require funds, we appropriate them from general revenues. But we won't do the same thing for you, so we have to look for some off-beat way to get you the extra money you need.' In my opinion, such tactics, however well-intentioned, are not the methods of responsible government.

"I am personally in favor of a lottery. But the decision is up to the people, and I think we ought to have the opportunity to make it without being coerced. There is something beggarly about saying to the public: 'We know a lot of you don't approve of a lottery, but if you vote 'no' you'll be depriving your children of the best educational opportunities.'

"To summarize my position, I am in favor of a state lottery, but with the proceeds going into the general state revenues. And I am in favor of surveying and appropriating adequate funds for our educational needs whether the people decide they want a lottery or not. There are separate questions, and they should not be arbitrarily tied together."

Verwoerd Death Stuns Delegates

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—News of the assassination of Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd of South Africa stunned U.N. delegates today. Secretary-General U Thant told reporters, "This is deplorable because any violent action is deplorable."

Rules Out 2nd March in Cicero

CHICAGO (AP)—Robert Lucas, president of the Chicago chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, says his group will not march again in the suburb of Cicero but probably would conduct open housing demonstrations in Chicago.

Lucas led Sunday's parade of 200 members in the all-white community of 70,000 on Chicago's western fringe. Seven persons were injured — six suffered minor bayonet wounds — and 39 were arrested as 2,700 police and National Guardsmen moved with night sticks and swinging rifles.

The Cicero march was a demonstration independent of the Chicago freedom movement. The series of summer marches led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his aides was suspended Aug. 28 by King after he accepted a city pledge for more vigorous enforcement of the fair housing ordinance.

The town attorney of Cicero, Christy Berkos, said the marchers violated the agreement on which he issued them a parade permit. He said they antagonized the crowd by shouting "black power" and exchanging threats and challenges with the spectators.

Berkos said he was surprised at the number of people who lined the streets of the march route.

"I had hoped most people would stay home," he said. Berkos estimated the spectators numbered 3,000.

Lucas specified the Cragin, Gage Park and Bogan neighborhoods of Chicago for further demonstrations. King's supporters have made repeated marches in these areas.

Albert in Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital today for treatment of what his office called "a minor coronary occlusion without complications."

The announcement said Albert, 58, will remain in the hospital "for two to three weeks of rest."

Verwoerd Is Slain Report Dems

the bells were ringing summoning the House of Assembly for the start of the session.

Soon after Verwoerd had taken his seat on the front bench the assassin walked toward him.

Verwoerd looked up as if he expected the messenger was going to speak to him. The assassin then plunged the knife into Verwoerd's neck.

Verwoerd was stabbed at least three times. His assailant was armed with three knives, one of which looked like a dagger.

Verwoerd slumped at his desk, his head down, his face white. One doctor tried to revive him by giving him the mouth to mouth "kiss of life" resuscitation.

Chamber Hushed, Shocked

About 15 minutes after the attack, Verwoerd was carried out on a stretcher. The chamber was hushed and shocked.

Verwoerd was taken to Groot Schuur Hospital, Cabinet Minister Ben Schoeman, leader of the House of Parliament, told the South African Press Association that Verwoerd was not expected to survive.

On April 9, 1960, in full view of 30,000 persons at a fair in Johannesburg, a wealthy white farmer fired two bullets into Verwoerd's face. The bullets were removed and the prime minister was released from a Pretoria hospital within a month. The assailant, David Pratt, was sent to a mental hospital.

Until a new prime minister is elected, Verwoerd's duties devolve on the senior Cabinet minister, Finance Minister Dr. Theophilus Dons.

The parliamentary caucus of the ruling Nationalist party decides who the next party national leader will be. This leader automatically becomes prime minister.

Exponent of Apartheid

For years Verwoerd has been the leading exponent of apartheid, the policy of racial discrimination.

The silver-haired prime minister held that South Africa's 10 million blacks and three million whites could live apart.

Adopted Harsh Measures

To attain this goal, he adopted harsh measures to strengthen segregation after he took over at the death of Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom.

Among his measures was requiring passbooks for Africans in order to work or to travel about the country.

This resulted in rioting in March 1960 in which scores of Africans were killed. That brought protests from other countries, but Verwoerd shrugged off this criticism as the "ducktails" — juvenile delinquents — of the "political world."

He asserted that South Africa's problem was one of insuring the survival of the white race and at the same time doing justice to the nonwhites.

When the United Nations Security Council urged South Africa to abandon apartheid, Verwoerd denounced the resolution as interference in South Africa's internal affairs and a violation of the charter of the United Nations.

In eight years as minister of native affairs, before becoming prime minister, Verwoerd fashioned South Africa's segregation policies. He also devised new schemes for improving the lot of the Africans — but always within their own reserves.

He moved many out of shantytowns near white residential areas to quarters just outside the towns.

He also began introducing racial laws in keeping with his creed that separation was the only solution for the two races of South Africa.

Using such criteria as the shape of noses and kinkiness of hair, he classified blacks, mixed-blood coloreds and Asians by race, then allocated to each a rigid place in society in which residence, travel and employment were determined by the government.

Verwoerd was born Sept. 8, 1901, in the Netherlands. He came to South Africa at the age of 2, the son of a Dutch Reformed Church missionary.

Report Dems

turned down an offer to serve as permanent chairman of the convention, as announced last week by State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns.

Travia's supporters interpreted the speaker's move as leaving him free for possible nomination and, if unsuccessful, to be in a position to push Wagner for the nomination.

A statement by Burns, released by a spokesman in Buffalo Monday night, said Travia was "a great speaker, and it is truly unfortunate that there was some misunderstanding that caused him to resign the chairmanship." The spokesman declined to elaborate on "misunderstanding."

Rules Out Candidacy

In New York earlier Monday night, Travia had attributed his decision to "personal reasons" and added: "Beyond that, I have no comment. I gave my reason to State Chairman John Burns and if he wants to reveal it, that is up to him."

Travia denied a published report that his action was caused by a hope of obtaining the gubernatorial nomination. He said he was not a candidate and was not opposing O'Connor.

The speaker controls a bloc of delegate votes in Brooklyn. Half the Brooklyn district leaders had been Wagner supporters in a party struggle between the former mayor and Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, Brooklyn Democratic leader. The fight erupted when Wagner supported Travia for speaker of the assembly against Steingut.

Wagner is scheduled to fly to Buffalo this afternoon to be available for conferences with friendly delegates and leaders. He has said he is not attending the convention as an elder statesman.

Will Nominate Levitt

A spokesman for State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, Brooklyn Democrat, said Monday night in Albany that Wagner will nominate Levitt at the convention for another term.

O'Connor claims he has about 800 of 1,145 delegates already pledged to him. A candidate needs 573 votes for nomination.

The only other announced candidate, Howard J. Samuels, Canandaigua millionaire businessman, claims 200 delegates, but has been hoping to block O'Connor's nomination on the first ballot.

Resnick Notes

which agency is authorized to remove these delinquents there will be some action."

Resnick predicted "Task Force Action to be in operation in the near future."

Speaking generally, Congressman Resnick cited another problem he said disturbed him — falling nitrolite dust.

He explained, "Boat owners using docking space along the Rondout Creek are being subjected to having their boats covered daily by falling nitrolite dust. This substance is manufactured in the hills above the creek and is constantly falling down on the boats below. The dust makes it impossible to keep a boat clean and I have been told that the dust eats away at the paint, shaving years of wear off the boats. This must be corrected."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a cautious advance early this afternoon as it embarked on its significant post-Labor Day period.

Trading was moderate, but considerably slower than it was on Friday prior to the three-day holiday weekend.

Strength was displayed by airlines, aerospace issues, motors and some blue chip chemicals. Gains of key stocks ran to a point or more. A few of the higher-priced, more volatile issues did better.

The general tone of stock market advice was restrained. Some analysts expected a continuation of the recovery drive from the year's lows but only on a technical basis and for a limited period pending the testing of the lows.

Concern about tight money and a possible business recession continued in Wall Street.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.17 at 789.86.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 284.7 with industrials up 1.4, rails up .4 and utilities up .5.

Chrysler and Pan American World Airways were bought on some big blocks Chrysler was ahead more than a point and Pan American nearly 2.

All Big Three motors gained. Gains exceeding a point were made by a number of airlines.

Paroid climbed nearly 3. Up a point or better were Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Raytheon, Du Pont and U.S. Gypsum.

Prices were generally higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

State Fair Drew Record Crowds

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Exhibitors and employees dismantled the State Exposition today, pleased with a seven-day record attendance that reached 528,569.

The fair closed Monday after a crowd of 101,722 went through the gates during the day. The previous record, 517,776, was set in 1959 when the fair ran for nine days. The previous seven-day high, 476,940, was set last year.

U. S. Air Strikes

miles south of Hanoi, destroying or damaging 85 boxcars and cutting the lines in 10 places, a spokesman said.

Air Force planes simultaneously scored hits on four oil storage depots, he said. In all, U.S. pilots reported destroying or damaging 43 barges, 10 bridges, five anti-aircraft positions and two radar sites.

The missions fell four short of the record 156 flown against the North Aug. 26. As customary, U.S. officials did not announce the number of individual plane strikes but the raids probably involved around 400 sorties.

In the ground fighting, the Marines 18 miles southeast of Da Nang went to the aid of a South Vietnamese company which came under heavy small-arms and machine-gun fire Monday morning. Leathernecks of the 9th Marine Regiment moved in under cover of artillery barrages and air assaults.

A U.S. spokesman said the fighting slackened in the late afternoon but small-arms fire continued through the night and broke off today. He said Marine casualties were light.

A few miles away a battalion of Marines on a sweep toward the sea seized a Viet Cong field hospital and captured 19 men in caves. Marine officers said the captives appeared to be Communist tax collectors or other functionaries.

U.S. headquarters reported that a three-man U.S. Army patrol was hit Monday night by two Claymore mines about 12 miles north of Saigon as it approached an Army compound. A spokesman said one of the American soldiers was killed and the other two were wounded.

In air action over South Viet Nam Monday, U.S. pilots flew 449 single-plane sorties and claimed destruction or damage to 427 enemy huts, buildings, bunkers, trenches and fortified positions. South Vietnamese pilots flew 257 sorties.

Three Planes Downed

Three U.S. planes were shot down in raids against the North on Sunday and another Monday, bringing the total lost in the air war over the North to 361. One pilot was rescued.

Red China charged that American planes sank a small Chinese cargo vessel and shot up another in the Gulf of Tonkin Aug. 29, killing nine crewmen and injuring seven. A 7th Fleet spokesman, while declining comment, cited a previous U.S. announcement that American planes sank two North Vietnamese patrol boats Aug. 29.

With campaigning in the final week before the national election for a constitutional assembly today, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared a curfew in Saigon from 6 p.m. Saturday to 4 a.m. Monday for all American civilians employed by the U.S. government or companies under contract to it.

American troops and Defense Department civilian employees already have been ordered to keep off the streets and out of public places this week until after the voting.

By keeping Americans out of sight, U.S. officials hoped to protect them from an anticipated rise in Communist terrorism in the final days before the vote and to counteract charges that they are trying to influence the balloting.

The South Vietnamese government also stepped up its measures to keep the Communists from succeeding in their efforts to sabotage the vote.

Da Nang police rounded up three terrorists, five accomplices and 50 pounds of explosives. The police said they believed the explosives were to be used in the "main effort to disrupt the elections in Da Nang."

On the northern outskirts of Saigon Viet Cong terrorists blew up a polling place but no one was hurt.

Warns of Depression

In a speech to 1,000 delegates representing the 9 million workers of the Trade Union Congress at Blackpool Monday night, Wilson warned that economic nationalism could lead to a world depression as grave as that of the 1930s and this would mean up to 2 million unemployed in Britain.

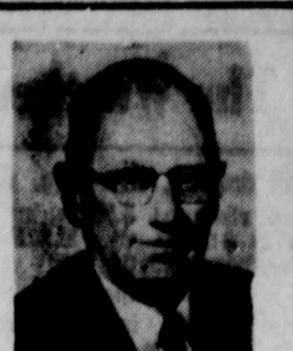

Wilson in effect was echoing the annual report of the International Monetary Fund in Washington Monday which said that the chronic trade deficits of Britain and the United States were undermining the confidence in the dollar and the pound sterling.

Wilson told the TUC: "One false, careless step — particularly by the custodians of a major trading currency — could push the world into conditions not unlike those of the early 1930s, when nations were set against nations, where economic nationalism, taking of use in every device of currency manipulation and protectionism produced uncertainty and stagnation in world trade."

Oceanography Important As Future Growth Area

Q) "Please recommend a company participating in oceanographic research which would be a good growth investment."

—A.B.

A) Oceanography, embracing many research areas, is currently represented in many of our leading corporations. For your consideration, I have selected two relatively small science companies which I have followed closely from the time when they traded over-the-counter at much lower prices. Now they are properly seasoned Big Board listings.

EG&G is an important factor in oceanographic instrumentation. A newly formed EG&G International subsidiary is expected to contribute substantially to sales of oceanographic equipment. Sanders Associates is well known for its manufacture of military systems for anti-submarine warfare.

But for general undersea work it produces deep-water sensing buoys, precision sensors, sonar data processors and read-out devices. Both of these stocks strongly resisted the late summer downturn in the market, making new all-time highs in mid-August.

Q) "My yearly income as a teacher is $8,500. Earnings growth is slow, although steady. We have family savings of $700 and $2,200 invested in Coburn Credit (ASE) and Tally Corporation (OTC). What are your suggestions to enhance my financial situation?"

—L.L.

A)—"Your question sounds as if 'enhancement' should come through stock investments but in good conscience I cannot go along with this assumption. Your savings reserve should first be enhanced, although you may consider your teacher's pension as part of your savings. However, a serious family illness could quickly wipe out your present cash reserves. Furthermore, you make no mention of life insurance, and I believe that some kind of an insurance program takes precedence over stock purchases.

Fortunately, you hold two issues earning consistently higher profits and their technical action has been reasonably good. I see no immediate reason for selling either of them. But I advise against further stock purchases until, as head of a young family, you give the emergency factor added attention.

Scientists Hope For Chance to Bombard Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Scientists hoped that wobbly tropical storm Greta might yet regenerate as it moved west-northwest over Atlantic waters more than 300 miles north-northeast of Puerto Rico with peak winds of no better than 40 miles per hour in squalls.

Forecasters said it was possible Greta might yet regenerate as it moved west-northwest over Atlantic waters more than 300 miles north-northeast of Puerto Rico with peak winds of no better than 40 miles per hour in squalls.

Greta was forecast to remain at least two days in an area where it is feasible to bombard her with silver-iodide crystals.

Hurricane researchers are trying to perfect this technique, called seeding, so they can change a hurricane's raging winds into rain. But they want to do it far at sea where resulting downpours wouldn't fall on populated areas. They hope to have a real, booming tropical storm for their guinea pig.

Early today, Greta was about 325 miles north of San Juan, P.R., and nearly 900 miles east-southeast of Miami.

Navy reconnaissance and ship reports indicated that the storm rolled on a west-northwest course at a speed of 18 miles an hour.

She was not expected to affect any land area through Wednesday.

Civil Rights Filibuster Is Expected in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate heads into debate — and an expected filibuster — on the House-passed 1966 civil rights bill today amid mixed views on its fate.

Sponsors said they are confident the bill will be passed containing some form of open housing provision.

But a sizable number of senators said privately they believed that, after a period of frustrating debate, the measure would be shunted aside until next year.

Others said they saw a good chance it would be passed with the housing section removed, leaving this issue to be fought out in a Senate-House conference.

Length of the debate will be the key to whether Congress can meet a mid-October adjournment target.

Two Weeks of Talk
The unofficial word was that the leaders were prepared to go along with two weeks of talk. Then, if it appears the Southerners have mounted a filibuster against it, they were understood to be planning an attempt to shut down the debate with a cloture vote.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield would only say publicly, however, that he had no idea how long it might take to settle the issue.

The bill would ban discrimination in about 40 per cent of the nation's housing units, mostly apartments and new single-home developments. Individual homeowners would not be covered.

Mansfield planned to move to bring up the bill for debate today as soon as the Senate completes a brief period set aside for routine business such as introduction of bills.

The motion is debatable and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said Southern senators plan to talk about it, at least for a while.

In consideration of the 1964 civil rights bill, the Dixie senators delayed a vote on such a motion for 17 days.

This strategy gives opponents an opportunity for a double filibuster, against the preliminary motion and then the bill itself.

The Southerners planned to stress this week that the House bill was not sent to the Judiciary Committee, as would be the normal practice.

Instead, when the measure arrived from the House Aug. 11, Mansfield forced it directly onto the Senate calendar.

The Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., has declined in the past to act on civil rights bills.

However, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Judiciary Committee member and the bill's floor manager, said he would present to the Senate early in the debate a statement supported by a majority of the committee urging adoption of the House measure with some minor changes.

Supporters and foes agree that the key to the bill's senate chances is held by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

The 1964 civil rights and the 1965 voting rights bills passed after Dirksen helped round up the two-thirds needed to shut off a filibuster.

But this year Dirksen has said he considers the housing section unconstitutional and will not support it. He also has said he expects Congress to pass some form of civil rights bill.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a supporter of the bill, said he felt "there is a good chance that Senator Dirksen will work out some compromise" on the housing section. He noted that Dirksen did this on the public accommodations provision in 1964.

In addition to the housing section, the bill has provisions aimed at eliminating discrimination in the selection of juries, and protecting the rights of Negroes and civil rights workers.

Two Incendiary Blazes Fought During Weekend
Kingston firemen responded to only two calls over the weekend but both were believed to be of an incendiary nature. City police are questioning a pair of juveniles in connection with one of the blazes.

The first blaze broke out on the Athletic Field on the corner of Smith Avenue and Cornell Street Saturday at 2:43 p. m. Two juveniles were apprehended at the scene.

Engine 1 from Central Station doused the fire under the direction of Captain Robert Hardwick.

The second fire was in response to a telephone call and occurred Monday at 4:30 p. m. in an unused carriage house in the rear of 147 Albany Avenue.

Firemen found a pile of sticks and rubbish burning. Engine 2 from Wiltwyck and Engine 4 from Wicks extinguished the blaze under the direction of Captain Hardwick.

President Draws Mostly Cheers For Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has begun his official pre-election politicking with an 18-speech Midwestern tour that drew big crowds and enthusiastic cheers for his Viet Nam policy.

There were a few jarring notes during Monday's swing through Michigan and Ohio. But from Johnson's standpoint, the "yeahs" clearly were in the majority.

One presidential speech, at a packed fairgrounds in racially charged Dayton, Ohio, was interrupted twice when some of his supporters scuffled with antiwar demonstrators.

The shoving and pushing matches, about 50 yards in front of Johnson's platform, did not in themselves interrupt the chief executive's words. Instead, he had to pause when many in the crowd cheered as antiwar banners were pulled down and ripped apart.

Ironically, all this happened as Johnson was discussing the plight of restive youth, asking, "Is the right to demonstrate all a society can offer the restless, surging spirit of a generation that asks where the action is?"

The President after ad-libbed a reference to the young demonstrators, saying it is those who wear the green beret of the Special Forces "who make it possible for you to dissent, who give you the liberty and the freedom that you so freely exercise."

Traveling for the first time this election season at the expense of the Democratic party, Johnson visited Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich., Dayton and Lancaster, Ohio. The crowds got bigger at every stop and, if official estimates were halfway accurate, totaled more than 250,000 people.

Johnson got one of his noisiest ovations from a rain-sprinkled, after-dark throng at the Lancaster fairgrounds. This came when he said no one wants to kill or be killed, no president wants to order young men into battle, "but we must deal with the world as it is."

In the set of prepared speeches Johnson took with him, one contained two policy statements — one rejecting the idea of any cutback of American forces in Europe at this time, the other responding to French President Charles de Gaulle's statement that Viet Nam peace talks must be preceded by an American commitment to some timetable for withdrawing its forces from South Viet Nam.

Johnson never did read his troops - in - Europe statement though the White House takes the position that the unspoken words are a part of the presidential record.
